FRONT AND CENTER

Succeeding

Ralph Waldo Emerson wrote:

"To laugh often and much; To win the respect of intelligent people and the affection of children; To earn the appreciation of honest critics and endure the betrayal of false friends; To appreciate beauty, to find the best in others; To leave the world a bit better, whether by a healthy child, a garden patch, or a redeemed social condition; To know that even one life has breathed easier because you have lived. This is to have succeeded."

Think back through your experiences in clogging this past year. How many chances did you get to share a fun time or laughter with your fellow cloggers? Take a moment to count the wonderful friends you have made and the support system that you have developed with your kindred spirits.

Honest critics? Most are, sometimes brutally. How have you grown or developed as a dancer or teacher this past year because of the honest word of someone who wants to see you be all that you can be? And, what have you changed because of a comment or observation that helped you to see yourself as others see you.

Never lose sight of the simple beauty of clogging, when feet meet floor. Look for the best in your students and for the best in yourself.

Consider the gift you give through the social aspect of clogging, and the lives that you touch with the art of dance. From the joy shared by a family that clogs together to the excited smiles of an audience at a nursing home exhibition, revel in the impact of music and dance to the soul.

Can clogging change the world? Maybe not. But to those of us who can't imagine a day without thinking about a step, who can't hear a song without feet tapping in their head, who can't sit still through a good fiddle tune, our world is changed forever. Take that fire that burns within you and let it be the spark that ignites in others this same passion we share for clogging.

Let that be your legacy. And when it is time for others to write of you, you will surely be thought of as a success.

Happy Clogging,
Jeff Driggs, Editor

My Name is Marilyn Lloyd and I am writing to give you some sad news. Walt Humphries -- who along with this wife Audrey have been a big part of the Kentucky clogging scene -- has been diagnosed with terminal cancer and we do not know how much longer he has. I'm sure Audrey and Walt would love to hear from you and fellow cloggers.

Sharing Ideas

I have been clogging since 1988 and teaching since 1990. I teach all ages from 3 to 80. I like to choreograph dances, dance and teach at workshops. I do a lot of performances with team members at nursing homes, local events, fairs, talent shows, etc. I also like to study the history of clogging. I am always ready and willing to help and share my knowledge of clogging with any one truly interested in learning. E-Mail me anytime. HAPPY CLOGGING TO ALL!!!!

Reno Clogfest International

of OR, and Lenore and Renee Strong of CA.

Jan Lee's Team -- the Biggest Little City Cloggers -- worked throughout the weekend as hosts to make sure that everyone felt welcome and to keep everything organized and moving along.

The spacious halls of the Reno Hilton were turned into massive dance halls with thousands of square feet of wooden dance floors laid throughout the facility. Sound Technician Ben Goldberg brought the latest in sound equipment to keep all the teachers sounding good and the dancers comfortable in the learning environment.

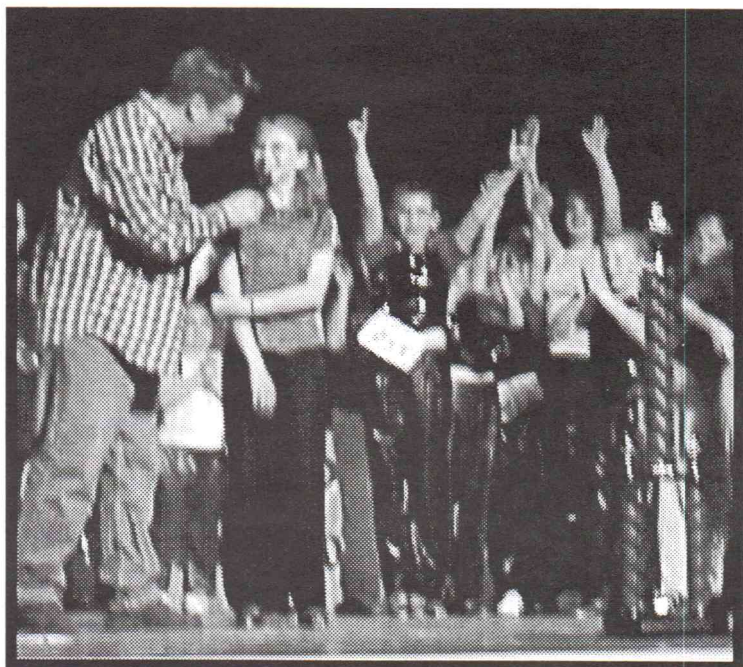

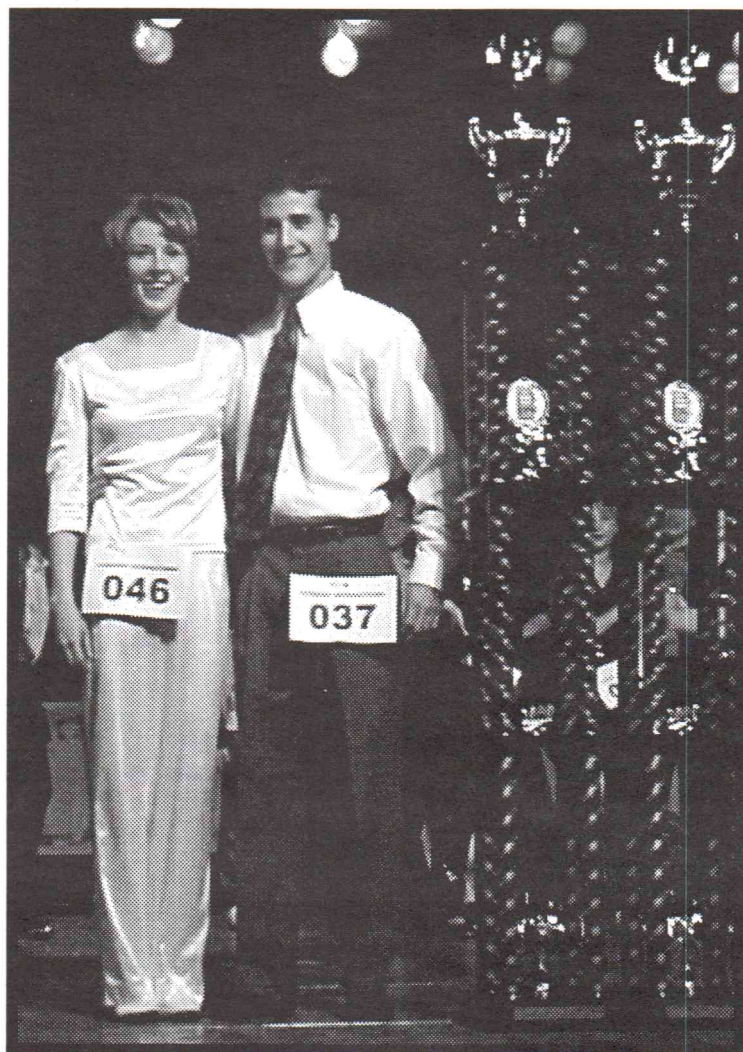

Throughout the day Friday and Saturday dancers enjoyed dozens of hours of top-notch instruction, including the treat of a teach by internationally recognized instructor Tandy Barrett, who ventured out of retirement for the event. Her routine to "Boy from Ballymore" was a hit of the weekend.

The evening programs brought a mix of the best cuers in the West alternating with fun dances and easy teaches by the national staff. When not enjoying the workshops and dances, participants could browse the selection of clogging vendors on hand or venture downstairs to the Hiltons own shopping mall with dozens of shops, arcade, bowling alley and premier restaurants.

On Saturday, in addition to workshops, ClogFest sponsored its first annual Clogging Championships. Over $3,000.00 in Trophies and awards were offered in both amateur and challenge levels in a variety of categories including line dance, precision, hoedown, artistic expression, team a capella, duo/duet and solo freestyle events.

The Overall Grand Champion Challenge team was The Dream Team from Utah. The Overall Amateur team was The Cowtown Cloggers of California. The Duo/Duet Champions and Challenge Solo Freestyle Champions were Shanell Hatch and Preston Fewkes of Utah. Rebecca Nicklas, of Silver Dance of Knoxville, Tennessee was the Amateur Solo Female Champion.

Plans are already underway for next years competition, which will add a $1,000 cash prize to the top team and cash prizes for other champions, and more great teachers and events are planned for the workshop. You can visit the event's website at www.clogfest.com.

Photos: Top: Shanell Hatch and Preston Fewkes of Utah are awarded over 6 foot trophies as Duo/Duet Grand Champions and Solo Freestyle Champions.

Hall of Fame Crowns Champions, Inducts Three into Hall of Fame in Maggie Valley

by Lou Maiuri, WV
America's Clogging Hall of Fame

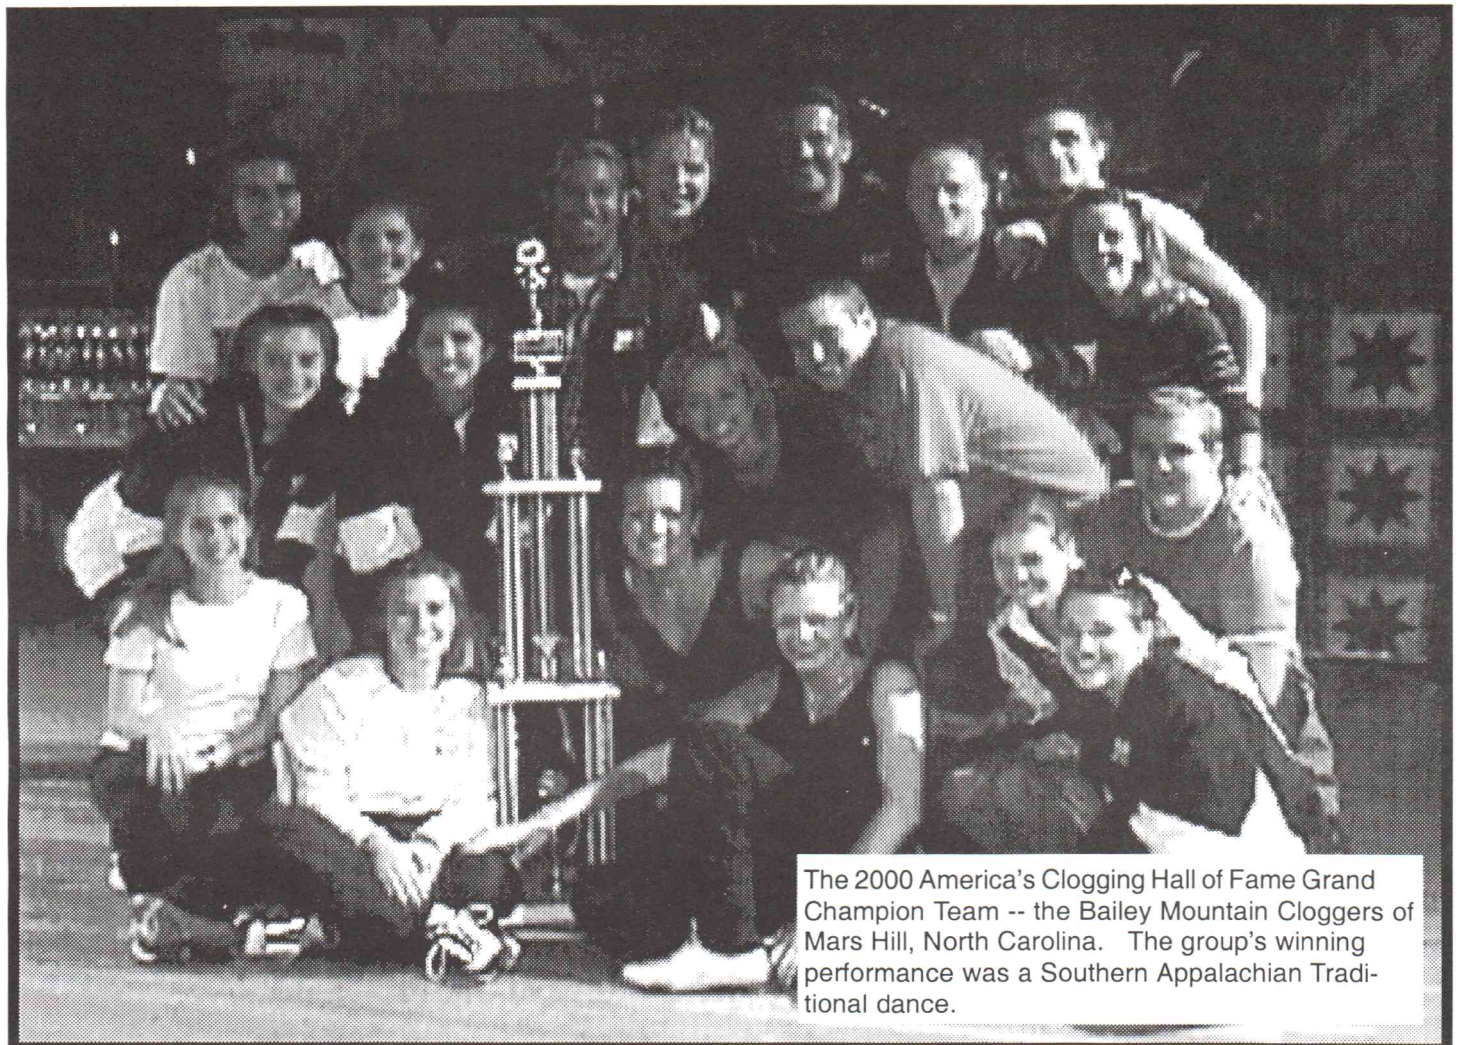

The America's Clogging Hall of fame organization held its annual Grand Championships on October 28 and 29th, 2000 at the world famous Stompin' Ground in Maggie Valley North Carolina.

Hundreds of dancers from across the United States converged on this landmark of traditional clogging for a two day festival crowning the grand champions from the year's qualifying competitions, recognizing new inductees into the Hall of Fame, and offering many other awards, scholarships and prizes.

Following a Directors meeting on Saturday morning, the championships began with dancing by the Country Hoe-down Champions in the peewee through junior age divisions. After contests in 15 categories of dance, the competition moved to the senior through adult age divisions.

At 3:00 p.m., the competition broke for the announcement of the America's Clogging Hall of Fame All American Team. This prestigious group is nominated throughout the year and chosen by a panel to represent the best and brightest dancers of the year. After the team announcement, a solo competition was held, as well as a flatfoot contest. The A.C.H.F. has been a leader in recognizing and promoting this uniquely Appalachian clog style.

Saturday also brought the announcement of the Millennium Team -- a group of dancers chosen by a panel to represent the organization and its commitment to preservation and competition.

Three people were recognized for their lifetime of contributions to traditional dance by induction into the America's Clogging Hall of Fame. This year's inductees were Ellis and Audrey Perry of North Carolina, and Mrs. J.C. (Evelyn) Smith of South Carolina. A presentation was made and plaques were awarded to these worthy individuals during a touching tribute ceremony.

The afternoon session included the Solo Grand Champion Dance-Off as well as the announcement of A.C.H.F. scholarship winners and the Melvin Sloan Family Award Dance off. This year's Melvin Sloan Family Award winners were Mark Clifford, of South Carolina, and Sonja Sheperd-Wiseman, of Tennessee.

Following a crowd-pleasing performance by the All American Team, the competition resumed into the evening, with the competition of all team categories of dance.

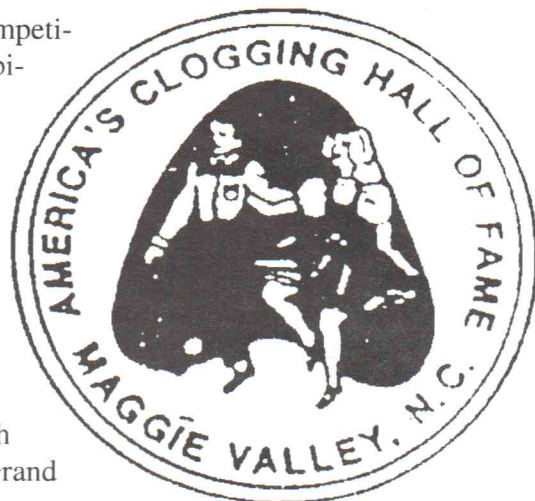

Sunday saw competitions in the Exhibition category, Show and Duo/Duet. The "Best Couple Award" went to Shamus Riley and Mandy Austin of Bailey Mountain

Cloggers in North Carolina. The Grand Champions Duo was

Rebecca Marine and Megan McKinney from Rhythm Impact from Tennessee, and the Grand Champion Duet was Kelly and Charleen Bowen from Dazzlin Image from Virginia.

Judges Paul Vaught, Ellis Perry, Elaine Enfield, Wayne Honeycutt and Garland Steele had a difficult task in judging the more than 200 team dances performed throughout the day. After all of the awards had been given, the highest team honor was presented to the top scoring team of the day, The Bailey Mountain Cloggers of Mars Hill, North Carolina.

America's Clogging Hall of Fame with the mission of dedication to the preservation of Southern Appalachian Clogging by honoring past and present leaders of the age old art of clogging. Based on the great attendance and support shown at the October dance-off, the A.C.H.F. and its dancers have much to be proud of!

Arkansas Clogging Leaders Gather to Form State Council

by Kathey Wilson
Arkansas Clogging Council

On September 9, 2000, several state and local clogging groups met at the 21st annual Folk Dance Festival in Mountain View, Arkansas to discuss the need for a statewide clogging organization.

The group is now reaching out to cloggers and individuals and groups in the state with an interest in the dance to generate support for the budding organization.

The goal of the group is to promote and preserve the true American folk dance, and to encourage participants to clog dance, preserve the heritage of the dance and to promote clogging.

The organization will also act as a source of information pertaining to clogging, clogging groups and clubs, dancers, workshops and competitions. The council pledges to be of assistance to clogging efforts in the state, without controlling or dictating the activities of cloggers, groups or clubs.

Those in attendance at the September meeting proposed dividing the state into five districts, and provide a directory of all clogging groups in an effort to foster opportunities for dancers to gather in a spirit of fun and friendliness.

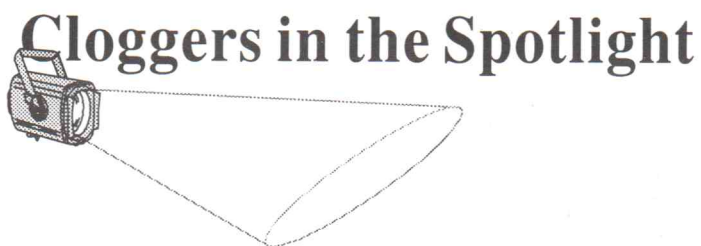

Dave Peterson, of Greenbrier, was elected Director of the Council. Peterson has taught clogging for 24 years and is instructor of the Cadron City Cloggers. In 1978, he and his wife, Donna, formed the Arkansas Country Dance Society.

The following interim officers were elected:

Leona Miller - President

Kathey Wilson - Secretary/Treasurer

Those interested in learning more about the council's efforts, contact Miller or Wilson through their listings in the Double Toe Times Instructor and Dancer Directory in the back of this issue.

DANCING'S

New Film "Billy Elliott" Reminds Us What Joys Dance Can Bring

by Jeremy Kay
6 Degrees Film Connection

It can be a long time before you realize you've seen a classic film. Sometimes you leave the cinema in silence, the mind a prism of inchoate thoughts while the senses tumble like gossiping waterfalls until, several days later, it all comes together and you know you've witnessed something memorable. Other times it's quicker - 20 minutes, maybe an hour. Watching 'Billy Elliot', Stephen Daldry's debut feature about a young boy who dreams of becoming a dancer, I knew instantly this was a "great". The opening sequence made the hairs stand up on the back of my neck: a slo-mo portrait of Billy (newcomer Jamie Bell) bouncing on his brother's bed to T Rex's 'Cosmic Dancer' washes the screen with magic - and that's just the beginning. This film is going to be a classic and there's no two ways about it.

Our eponymous hero is a motherless 11-year-old boy who lives with his grandmother (Jean Heywood), father (Gary Lewis) and older brother Tony (Jamie Draven) in a village in the North-East. Like most young lads in the community, Billy receives his physical instruction at the boxing gym but really all he wants to do is dance. There could surely be few worse places for a young boy with a fascination for ballet to grow up: it's 1984, the village is in the grip of a bitter miners' strike and the men need affirmation of their gender roles like never before. Daldry shows how the miners feel emasculated, not empowered, by their action and Billy's secret would be a major source of embarrassment to the family. He harbours his desire like a pubescent youngster unnerved by his changing body... but still can't resist a quick tap here or pirouette there when no-one's looking.

One day, in the boxing gym, Billy gazes longingly at the dance class led by Mrs. Wilkinson (Julie Walters). The jaded teacher, bored senseless by the mediocre tutu'd ranks of little girls, invites him to join the session. Wilkinson quickly realizes the boy has a gift and gives him private lessons. Under her tutelage Billy flourishes and, as his father and brother vent their frustrations on the picket line, the youngster uses his burgeoning skills to articulate his own juvenile rage in a dazzling sequence of improvised steps. When the father discovers what's going on he is furious with Mrs Wilkinson and she is ordered to leave Billy alone. The only problem is the teacher wants Billy to audition for the ballet school in London and Billy is a very determined young man.

The film was originally called 'Dancer' but the producers switched the title because they felt it would attract a limited audience. 'Billy Elliot' sounds more intriguing and hopefully will generate wider interest. It deserves to do so because the film isn't essentially about dancing. Daldry, who honed his visual and dramatic skills as director of the Royal Court Theatre, uses dance as a way of examining the themes of growth and virility. While the male members of Billy's family must engage in a physical and aggressive way with the authorities, their losing battle renders them impotent. By contrast Billy's vocation, which one might expect to be a hindrance to social development in the village, offers him the chance of flight from economic hardship and the opportunity to fulfil his male role as a breadwinner.

The cast is superb. The 14-year-old Bell matches his experienced co-stars and you get the feeling he's got a promising future. In a poignant parallel with the film, Bell was plucked from obscurity as an actor and hid his dancing skills from his real-life friends. I defy anyone not to be moved and thrilled by the scenes where he unleashes his furious routines in a back alley, bedroom, anywhere he can - they are dynamite. Walters is better than she has been in a long time as the seen-it-all teacher and never allows her role to become overly sentimental, while Lewis almost steals the show (he doesn't - it's Bell's) as the widower who's afraid to show his love. With a good supporting cast that includes Draven and Stuart Wells (Billy's friend Michael, who also has issues of his own), Daldry has delivered a cut and polished diamond.

DOUBLETOE TIMES

Naomi Brings Fun to Clogging

By Sam Williams
Greenville, MO

Gallatin, Tennessee, lived up to its reputation by providing beautiful scenery and a good time for the people who attended the first annual Smoky Mountain Workshop September 24 and 25, 1999 at the Gatlinburg Convention Center. Some people even came in 3 days early just to visit the restaurants and outlet malls, the new Hard Rock Café and the music theaters that have become a trademark of this area.

The instructors who taught at the workshop seemed to be in rare form. Each instructor taught new routines and the participants could not say enough good things. The Convention Center in Gatlinburg is wonderful, so spacious and beautiful. We can't wait to host Spring Fling there in March of 2000.

The weekend started at 1:00 p.m. on Friday with clogging workshops. It was rather comical when Josh King showed up just a wee bit late due to traffic and the door security would not let him in until Lynne came to the door to say it was okay. That was a laugh all weekend, but you bet your bottom dollar she will again be at the door at Spring Fling - so you better have your ribbon! Workshops continued until 5:00 p.m., then everyone took a short dinner break and returned at 7:30 p.m. for the introduction of instructors and workshops. There was a dance until 10:00 p.m. and then I believe everyone hit the streets to enjoy the sights of Gatlinburg. The next morning they sure looked tired!
