FRONT AND CENTER

Don't Dance So Fast...

I'm on a poetry kick lately. I am one of those restless sleepers who reads at the midnight hour. Robert Frost has always been my favorite. "Nothing gold can stay..." Don't get me started!

In a collection of works from the story bin I came across an anonymous work that proclaimed:

You better slow down
Don't dance so fast
Time is short
The music won't last

Obviously, this anonymous person wasn't a clogger. Sure, I get it. We all need to slow down and hear the music before the song is over. As a metaphor for life, the dance can go too fast and we lose touch with friends because we don't make the time to call or visit. We rush through our days and fail to see the beauty and the gifts all around us.

But when it comes to dancing, make mine a fast one -- a freestyle that leaves your knees weak and your legs tingling.

Yeah, yeah, yeah. I know I need to slow my life down. But I'm a clogger -- a heel-clickin', toe-tappin', drag-slidin' clogger. I've seen too many people sit out the dance or peer through windows at life. I wanna go out kickin'... maybe even a double-double.

Happy Clogging,

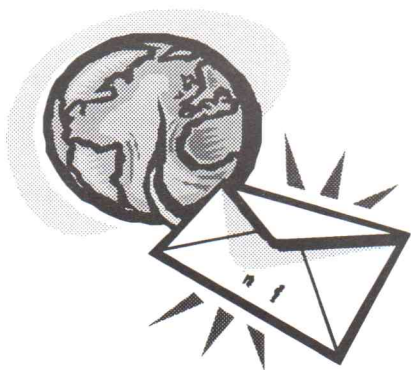

Jeff Driggs, Editor

Footworks of Art

I must say that the April issue of Double Toe Times was an emotional experience as I read several of the articles. The article about Sherry Glass was enjoyable and brought back the fondest memories of paralleling experience with my team; the Palmetto State Cloggers.

The friends the Glass family made along the way were friends of mine too. I was glad to see credit go to inspiring folks like Burton Edwards, Jean Stevenson, Chip Summey, Jay Ledford, Chip Woodall, and JoAnn Gibbs.

My mind flourished with memories of my favorite place to date; Fontana Village, NC. As a 13 yr. old through young adult, I clogged in Fontana with the Fontana Village Cloggers during summer break. Bill Nichols, Charlie Burns, and the Steele Family Cloggers—all the greats of clogging as instructors and teams. And of course, the mention of the Hee Haw International Clogging Competition that would change my life forever. In 1983, the first year the competition was held, I was the overall Grand Champion Female dancer. My tea took 2nd Place Overall and my daughter and I was the 2nd Place Overall Duet. A judge told us that our duet had 1st Place overall, but at that time they couldn't give more than one overall to the same person. In 1984, my Palmetto State Cloggers were the Grand Champion Team; winning with a novelty routine to "The Best Little Whore House in Texas".

In June 1987, I was asked to judge the Hee Haw contest. This is where I saw the very pretty and talented Sherry Glass. I gave her a perfect score. As everyone knows, all the judges felt the same way and she won Overall Female.

In your footnotes section was a reader who inquired about clogging around the Stuart, Virginia area and mentioned Mount Airy, N.C. Last fall, on our 6th Anniversary, my husband and I took the Blue Ridge Parkway from Cherokee to Virginia and took an exit for a "must see" visit to Mount Airy due to our love for the Andy Griffith Show. They were having "Mayberry Days", and we got to pose in front of the "sheriff's car" and laugh at the "Barney", "Goober", and "Floyd" look-alikes. I even told my husband that I could live happily ever after in this town and wondered if anyone taught clogging there. Then to find out that Gary Kirkman does was great!

Pam Collins could relate to the article in the May Double Toe Times about the "Making of a Champion." Pam (bottom row, second from left) was the female solo grand champion at the very first HEE HAW International Clogging Championships held in Nashville, Tennessee in the Summer of 1983. Pam is joined by male solo champion Jon Hasler of Indiana (bottom row, left) and Duet Champion Tony Eisenhower and partner from Grandfather Mountain Cloggers of North Carolina, and the grand champion team, the Kentucky Hoedowners of Versailles, Kentucky. A keen eye will spot future clogging instructor Jeff Parrott (top row center).

This issue really touched my heart!

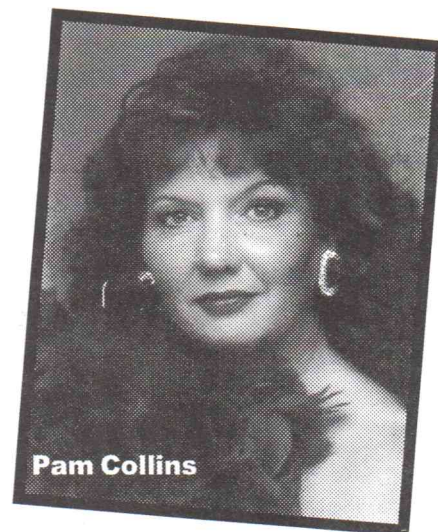

From your "Front and Center" comments to the listings of informative workshops and competitions is always something I look forward to reading.

When my Double Toe Times comes in the mail, I stop everything I'm doing and enjoy fond memories and learn a little more about our clogging family. I do wish that an article would be written on two people I truly feel have had a huge impact on where clogging has gone;

Burton Edwards and Jay Ledford. In common with them by wins and appearances on Hee Haw, we share a special bond. But what is amazing is that Fontana Village was a BIG important role in our lives.

In January, several of the Palmetto State Cloggers that were on Hee Haw got back together and have started learning a buck/Irish/percussive routine. We are no means a threat to the likes of the Bailey Mountain Cloggers, but we have loved each other through all these years and we are having fun. We practice in Irmo, S.C. We will perform as a team this fall!!

I have three new teams in Walhalla, S.C.; Pee Wee, Junior, and Senior and I gave them the same name; Palmetto State

Pam Collins

Cloggers. They are new and just getting started, but keeping up the tradition. Through them, I am still making new friends. God has blessed me with so many!

Keep up the excellent work! Love and continued happy clogging and happy memories to all my clogging friends!

Canada Gets "Spring Fever"

by Helen LeCounte

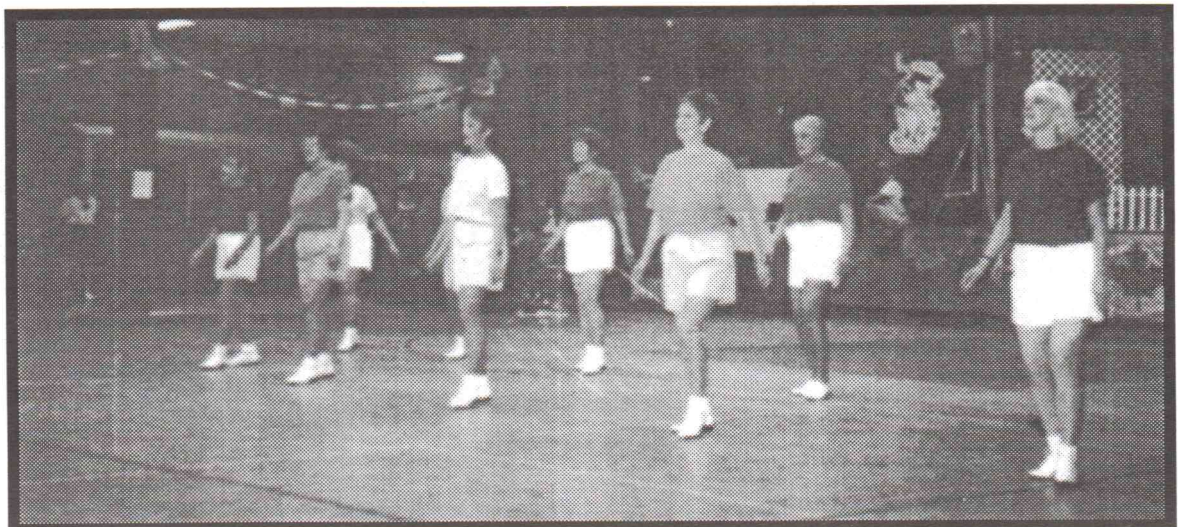

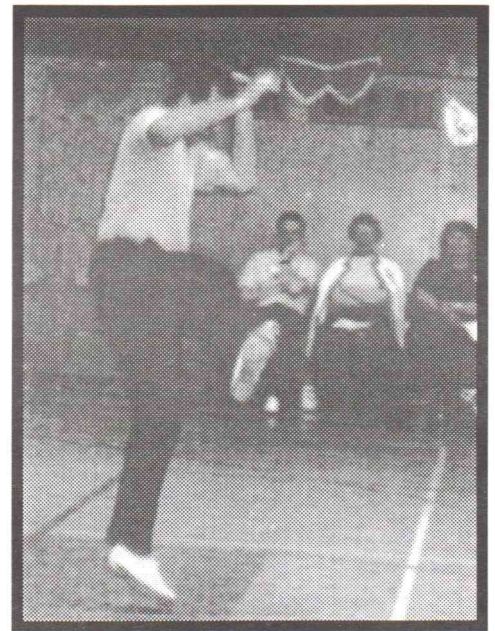

Port Coquitlam, British Columbia, Canada

For the sixth year Eric and Grayce Bice made their annual trip to Chilliwack, British Columbia, Canada, to teach the SPRING FEVER Workshop.

Although it fell on the weekend of St. Patrick's Day, the theme was Mardi Gras with the hall decorated with large colorful masks. Our T-shirt this year was bright yellow with 'Chillbilly' wearing his best Mardi Gras hat and costume. (Chillbilly, our weekend mascot, is a Scarecrow). Some dancers came dressed for the occasion while others just enjoyed the wonderful weekend. Lots of donated raffle & door prizes added to the fun. And the included lunch, prepared by a trio of dancers was most welcome and enjoyed. This weekend has turned into a tradition to welcome Spring and the local farms are always happy to oblige with fields of daffodils and tulips.

Entertainment was provided by the Bear Mountain Cloggers, who also brought a live band to accompany them; a duo, or was that a trio? - 2 girls with a dancing dummy between them, provided a few laughs; Time Step Cloggers 'Thursday Nighters' demonstrated their newest learned routine, and their Senior Group once again showed off their prize winning version of Don Messer Medley - it gained them 3rd place at a Provincial competition in the summer of 2000. And of course Eric did not need too much encouragement to show off his individual style, highlighted by an accapela number, always a hit with the dancers.

We look forward to SPRING FEVER 2002.

Jim Cox made poetry with his stories and his footwork

by Linda Gigliotti and Kathy Kaplan

Jim Cox passed away on April 2, 2001 after a short illness. Jim was known all over the United States for his love of Clogging and Flat Foot Dancing. Jim began his dancing career in California in 1987 and shortly became a clogaholic and could never keep his feet still.

Jim first became a member of the Stompers Performance Team and booked all of their performances. He spent many hours practicing all of the steps. He also danced with the Sutter Stompers, Thunderfoot Cloggers, and the Claim Jumpers. He was most famous for his solo act which included Cowboy Poetry that he wrote himself. He also danced with the Barbary Coast Cloggers, and absolutely loved clogging until he passed away.

We will all miss Jim very much, as he was a gentle, kind man that everyone loved. Many of us attended his memorial service where he was remembered as a wonderful person whom so many people loved and admired.

A.C.H.F. Spring Meeting Offers Great Dancing Cues and Mountain Views

America's Clogging Hall of Fame Spring Meeting at the world famous Stompin' Ground in scenic Maggie Valley, North Carolina on April 28, 2001 offered dancers a full day of traditinoal workshops and steps classes followed by a solo competition and a fun night of dancing.

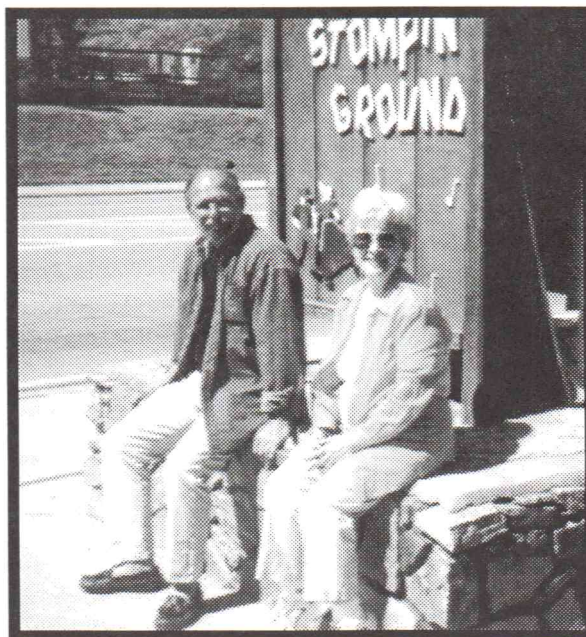

Instructors Vicki Barnes, Sonja Wiseman, Lou Maiuri, Jeff Driggs and Mark Clifford kept the dancers on their toes with a variety of classes in mountain style dancing, steps and line dancing.

The solo competition that followed awarded top honors to grand champion male solo Ed Horn, solo female champ Summer Kinser, and flatfoot champion Anna Wells.

Participants were invited back to a great evening of dancing and music at the Stompin' Ground which featured an exhibition by Burton Edward's newest batch of dancers in a fantastic performance.

Cloggers in the Spotlight

Clogger Wins Prestigious Truman Scholarship

Michael Ryan Wood, a West Virginia University Student, was named this Spring as a 2001 Truman Scholar - one of only 70 nationwide. Michael not only excels in his studies, but in his favorite pastime, clogging.

Wood, a double major in political science and business administration, said he was overwhelmed with the news - especially the way he heard about it.

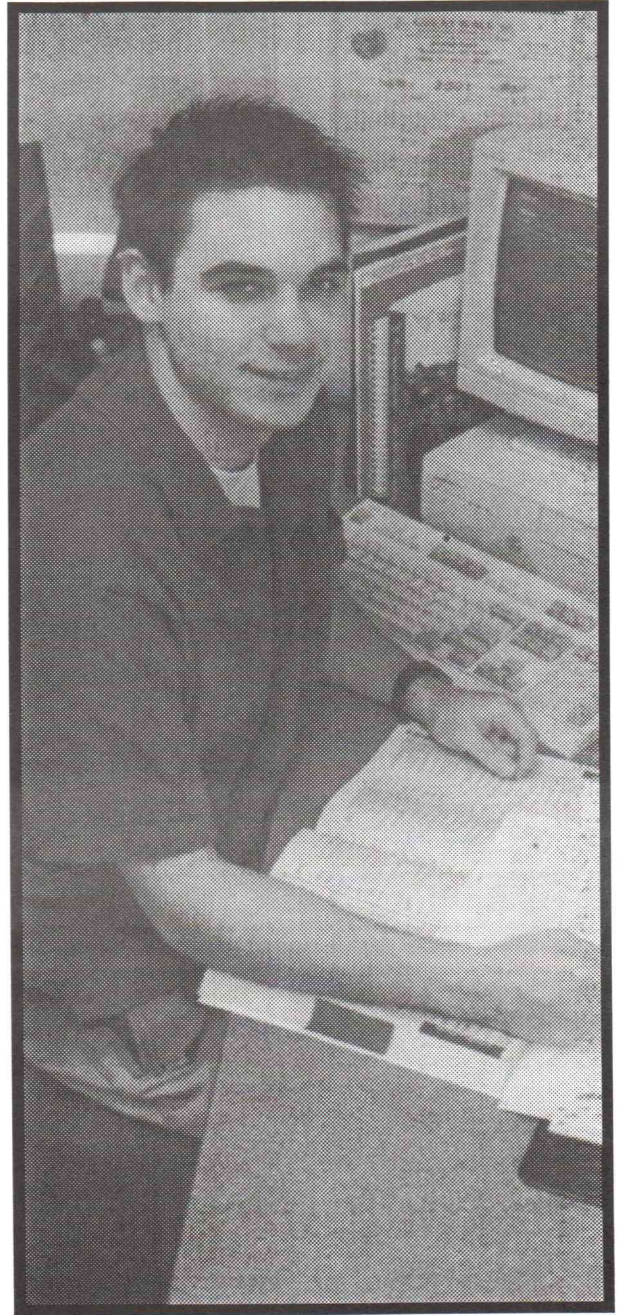

“(WVU) President (David) Hardesty came to my political science class on the presidency and announced it,” Wood said, “and believe me, I was not expecting it. I still don’t think the magnitude of the award has sunk in. I’m completely humbled by it.”

The 21-year-old city editor of the Daily Atheneum attends WVU on a Foundation Scholarship, the university’s elite four-year award for West Virginia’s top students.

Michael grew up around clogging. His grandfather, Lou Maiuri, is a well known dancer and caller around West Virginia and is Treasurer of America’s Clogging Hall of Fame, the competition and preservational organization for clogging based in Maggie Valley, North Carolina.

Michael stills joins his Grandfather for exhibitions and to help teach young people the art of clogging at state parks and schools around his native West Virginia.

Wood hopes to one day work for the U.S. Department of Interior or Agriculture, and plans to run for office someday. With West Virginia already hosting a Governor who clogs, Michael could well continue to serve his state while promoting this art that is very much a part of West Virginia’s heritage.

Cloggers Perform for Lady Golfers in Florida

by Lory Rockwell

The Seven Lakes Cloggers, in their third season under direction of Dee Gallina, were invited to perform at the 18 Hole Ladies Award Luncheon.

Eight of us “over fifty-fivers” pressed out bib overall shorts and polka dot shirts and got dolled up to do two numbers for the occasion. We opened with a snappy dance to “Take It Back,” by Reba McIntyre, followed by “You Can’t Rock Me,” by the Brian Setzer Orchestra.

The golfing ladies were extremely generous with their appreciation and applause.

Being retired does not mean just sitting around, it means getting around, and clogging is a great outlet for our energy.

Preventing Dance Injuries from the Start

By Paul F. Clifford

Many experienced dancers are fairly careless with their own musculoskeletal and neuromuscular health. Hey! We dance so much. Why should we bother to do warm ups before going dancing? We have experienced so many minor and major dance floor injuries, we know the risks and how to avoid them! Don't we? General health! What has our general health got to do with dancing? If I'm sick, I stay in bed. If I'm well I go dancing! Where's the risk in that? Dance is in my blood! Why should I go to dance classes?

If you are a beginner or experienced dancer and have these sorts of attitude, be warned, you are immediately at risk of accumulating damage that can result in you sustaining a long term injury.

Beginner dances, social dancers and even experienced dancers can be a big threat to themselves! Often, they have no idea of what they are doing to their bodies and as some medical/dance journals have noted, have no idea of the risks associated with popular dancing.

Personal experience and knowledge about your own limitations is essential in avoiding a dance injury but of more importance, especially for the male, dancers need to understand the limitations of their partner's body! That especially applies to Salsa and other Latin dancers! For instance: If you improperly lead a girl into a spin and she has a weak knee, ankle joints or just plain tired, she can lose balance and fall and that could cause a real physical injury to both of you.

This article is the first in a series aimed to help you understand your body and the causes and prevention of dance related injuries. Even the most minor injury can escalate into something major if you aren't aware of the consequences. I am not a member of the medical profession, so if you have any queries or concerns about your health, please see your doctor. These articles are informational only. What I present is a sharing of what I have derived from the net, books, other sources and from recent personal experience.

In my case I've been a virtual cripple for many months. Yeah! I feel sorry for me too! It's been a real pain (pardon the pun). I have had a recurring injury that started as a result of someone treading on my foot and which over time compounded into something far more serious effecting my entire leg and my general health. But that is a long story, which I won't go into.

When I was teaching dance, my insurance company gave me a little speech that they recommended I give before each class. Basically it went, "Dancing is a sport, like any sport there is a risk of injury. If you are pregnant, have a heart condition, an existing injury or any other condition that might impede your enjoyment of the class, please tell your teacher so he/she can advise you" Apart from the practicalities of this little speech, I found that by giving it, I gained excellent class loyalty. From their perspective, I showed care for them (which I had anyway) and it gave them confidence to tell me things they wanted kept secret but which were impeding their learning process. Often it was some physical problem, but sometimes it was something with deeper roots. Mental stress can also put a dancer at risk of injury. Nervousness in class or just life issues can tax your concentration and that can be dangerous for you and your partner.

Generally, teachers are nice people and there to help. So, if you have a problem, talk to your teacher! If I was made aware of a problem, I often modified what I had planned to teach or taught a variation of a move to reduce the risk factors. Most teachers will do the same! Sometimes, I would have to recommend that the dancer not attempt a move and a couple of times I had to suggest that they see their doctor and discontinue class for a period of time. Once I had to quietly take a male student aside and request that he sit down when I taught certain moves. The girls were complaining that he was causing them great shoulder pain. This problem was solved by him having a couple of private lessons to fix his leads. Even though some girls blame male leads for some aches and pains they suffer, it is often obvious, it is them fighting the leads that was causing their problems. Sometimes this was just man-hate, but more often it was just lack of confidence, private lessons can help. For both males and females, it is advisable to realise, that your attitude towards your partner can increase your risk of encountering a dance injury! Injuries can be avoided by thinking of your partner first. A little polite consideration for your partner and other dancers on the dance floor, may prevent you from being injured! These are some of the more esoteric factors that can lead to dance related injuries. However, there are more practical issues that need to be considered to avoid problems.

I was teaching in a club and had no direct control over the state of the amenities. So, my insurer also suggested I request the students to inform me of any defects in these amenities. The most important being anything spilt on the dance floor, tears in the carpet and anything that people might trip over. When I first took out personal and profession liability insurance for the classes, my insurer explained to me that they hadn't had a claim arising directly from a dance class in over five years. However, there was a risk that people could encounter a minor incident (such as slipping on stairs) prior to class or in a break, complete a class and aggravate the existing condition leading to a severe injury.

Think about that for a minute! You slip on the stairs, a common enough occurrence. Probably has happened to everyone. You might even have felt a twinge of pain in your ankle, knee or back. The pain goes away in a couple of minutes and you forget about it and get on with life. It is too minor to worry about! Even if the pain is momentarily intense, the embarrassment factor might come into play. If you are with a group of people you don't want to be known as a clumsy fool, so unless the pain is unbearable, you make every effort to save face, even if it means putting up with discomfort for a lengthy period of time. Not really sensible, but when your trying to fit in or impress a potential partner, it is this human reaction that nearly everyone in a male eccentric culture seems to invoke.

Even in the most minor accident, if you feel a twinge of pain, no matter how momentary it is, you have done damage to your body! That's why you have pain! It is your body's way of telling you to pay attention, something is wrong and "we are sending in an emergency team to try and fix the problem, please give us your co-operation! If pain persists, we need backup! Please see your doctor."

Choreographer's Corner

European Cloggers Put Thier Skills to the Test at Annual Instructors School to Choreograph "Spirit of the Hawks"

by Tina Kipp
Germany

November 24-26, 2000, 14 clogging instructors from all over Germany (mainly from the North of Germany) and Austria (1 participant) met in Bad Worishofen in the beautiful hotel owned by Christian and Dietlinde Buchner to attend the 2nd International Clogging Instructor School - ICIS (still under the direction of Kenny Reese, Tina Kipp, and Heike Ludwig). The group was also quite mixed regarding the different levels of experience - everything from absolute beginners to very experienced instructors, even callers and cuers attended, who of course have a lot of experience in other areas.

On Friday night, everybody got together for the first time, and what do you do when you don't know each other very well? Right -- after some information, an introduction round, you -- dance (again on flooring made of tetrapak, which suffered quite a bit this very first night, since you can really rip off quite big scraps if you have the right technique). During the afterparty there were first exchanges on the homework: everybody had to teach a step that was partially unknown to him or her. So it definitely makes sense to check that you have worked out the step correctly.

The next day, after a fortifying breakfast buffet, everybody took the mike, some for the first time ever, which of course is always quite exciting. Then, it went on with seminars about Show/Performance, Showmanship, Leadership with role plays (you wouldn't think what strenuous dancers some of the instructors must have in their groups, the "volunteer" instructors had quite some work to do in their role as leaders, very much to the entertainment of the other participants that weren't involved. In-between, there was more homework to do: choreograph a dance to the ICIS 2000 song that had already been counted and split up in parts. Kenny, Tina and Heike had volunteered to take care of the intro and the ending. After a wonderful

Appalachian Workshop with Kenny, everybody had already finished their parts, when it fortunately dawned on the three in the middle the afterparty that they had to finish theirs. They wanted to take French leave but everybody followed them to watch the spectacle, poor Kenny in the middle being kicked from both sides and almost killed when doing Robot. There was a great atmosphere that night, just as during the entire weekend, which was certainly not only due to the Lambrusco that came along with the pizza delivery.

On Sunday, some of the participants were not really fit anymore, but everybody was eager to see: What about the ICIS song? - All was just fine, the groups had a lot of fun and we even managed to smoothly change over the mike so that everybody got a chance to cue to the sound of "The Spirits of the Hawk". Obviously, you can dance to cues when 17 instructors are involved, can't you!?!

Slowly, the participants were getting ready to leave since some people had to drive back home quite far. However, it became evident during the last seminar on Programming and during a brief exchange about Co-Instructors that these topics concern most of the instructors. Overall you could also tell from the feedback that it was a successful weekend, one of the attendees even wrote a poem about it. Maybe we will see you, too at the next ICIS on November 23-25, 2001 in Germany?

Editors Note:

This issue we are proud to feature the effort of these instructors as our "Choreography Corner".

What a journey it has been for our dance to travel from its European roots to the new world and back. The collective experience that has shaped the Appalachian clog dance is finding its way back to the lands from which it came.

I know you will enjoy the ICIS choreography to "Spirit of the Hawks". Use the Directory and let your fellow teachers know you appreciate their efforts.

Clogging Instructors and Dancers Directory

A listing in the Double Toe Times exclusive Instructors and Dancers Directory entitles you to list your events, competitions and festivals in the Upcoming Events column free of charge. The Directory is also a valuable source for networking, marketing and promotion. A bullet (■) in front of the Instructor or dancer's name indicates that this person can, and does, promote old-time clogging and traditional dancing.
