FRONT AND CENTER

Are your feet in the dance?

In his poem The Dance, Stephan Whittaker of Arizona writes:

You said your heart had lost it's fire
And in that loss had waned desire
And so you gave it one more chance
Although your feet weren't in the dance

The allegory is broad. From our relationships to our family to our work, we often find ourselves going through the motions without really investing ourselves emotionally into what we do.

"What does it matter?", you might ask. As long as the work is done, or we all get along or the boat isn't rocked then all is well. A good outcome is the goal.

But what about how you feel inside? At the end of the class, or the end of the day, how do you feel about your efforts and how they effect those around you.

It's easy to teach in absentia. Go by the lesson plan and don't fix it if it's not broken. Some people go through life with infinite order, but find - in the end -- that they really didn't enrich themselves or empower others whose lives they touched with their experience, warmth and wisdom.

Let your time in the classroom be a chance to share not only clogging but the joy of sharing art. Let the magic of dance be a bridge to bring you and your students to a place where music can move and inspire people to express their lives through the rhythm and sheer social joy of clogging.

Put your feet in the dance!

Happy Clogging,

Jeff Driggs, Editor

Your letters, faxes and e-mails

My "Fair" Lady

I just wanted to write and say how great cloggers are!

I emailed Lois Elling in San Jose, California -- I had clogged with her group two years ago when I was visiting the area -- and she invited me to attend her classes. She also invited me to join them at the San Jose State Fair where they were clog dancing for four hours! Lois called most of the numbers so I was able to just dance along with them. I had a ball! I think everyone there has a great time clogging and the audience really enjoyed the show. Some even joined in the dancing!

I am sending a picture that shows us all clogging at the fair.

I thought you might enjoy seeing the west coast fair circuit at its best!

Arlene Roth

Putting Up a Good "Front"

I just received my latest issue of the Double Toe Times and I had to let you know how much I enjoy reading your "Front and Center" editorial each month. I always like what you have to say and how you say it. Sometimes you even seem to read my mind by talking about something that I'd been thinking about.

Keep up the good work.

Lois Elling
California

Dear Lois:

I knew you'd say that. Just kidding! I am so glad that you enjoy the editorial each month. As a magazine for cloggers that is contributed to by cloggers, I try to use submissions as much as possible from those in the field. The "Front and Center" editorial each issue is really fun for me because it offers me the chance to share whatever is on my mind. Sometimes I worry that I may be too preachy and some people have said that we need to tackle tougher problems and delve into the politics of clogging.

I've strived to make Front and Center a forum to extoll the positive aspects of clogging and to share perspectives and ideas that have helped me along the way and may inspire others to be their best as a dancer or teacher.

Thanks for reading!

Cloggers in the Spotlight

Got My Top Hat...

Each year, the members of the Cowichan Valley Cloggers of Cobble Hill, British Columbia, Canada hold a one day clogging workshop on Vancouver Island -- which is halfway between Nanaimo and Vancouver, B.C.

Instructors from Vancouver and Vancouver Island participate, and the evening fun dance gives the hosts a chance to perform for their fellow cloggers and guests.

The group also attends the Sealion Stomp Workshop each year in Nanaimo, B.C. and performs in shows, fairs and festivals around their area.

Cowichan Valley Cloggers director Ev Champoux also choreographs dances for the group and for classes.

Dance, Children, Dance

Dance is overlooked as an important and vital educational tool for our children

by Karen Dito

Dance has often been overlooked as important and had not been included in elementary curriculum. Many educators and much of the general public believe that dance is a frivolous activity with no educational merits. Including arts in the elementary curriculum is important to the growth, self-esteem, and creative expression of children and is in no way trivial to their educational process. Dance should be an integral component of a comprehensive education for the same reasons that math, history, language arts, social studies, and science are essential to education. Each subject taught to students helps them to learn who they are, how they interact with others in the world, and how they fit into history. Providing these educational elements to students in a unique way, dance allows children to simultaneously move, think, and feel. In no other subject to students learn to express themselves and communicate through movement, a natural means of expression for children.

Dance is more than the exploring of different ways to make a shape or learning a series of steps to music; it is a way of moving that uses the body as an instrument of expression and communication. Through dance, students learn teamwork, focus, and improvisational skills. Dance awakens new perceptions in children which help them learn and think in new ways.

Children need to express and communicate their ideas and to be given the opportunity to make creative decisions, even at a young age. This decision making promotes self-esteem and independent thinking for children. Learning the movement of others helps expand the child's movement vocabulary while creating one's own movement will put the child in a teaching role and give her the chance for her voice to be heard. Giving the students the freedom of making choices within a structure encourages them to reach beyond what comes easy to them and use their imagination, thus allowing them to test their own personal boundaries.

Dance also enables students to better understand themselves and the world in which they live. Through the arts, teachers can often teach children to recognize the contribution of all cultures to the fabric of our society and increase the understanding of diversity and values of all people. Dance lends itself well to this task through learning traditional folk dances and creating new ones based on children's ideas. Dance also enhances skills of perception, observation, and concentration which will undoubtedly help students in all of their school subjects.

Educators need to recognize that their goal should be to encourage creative thinking in ALL subjects in the classroom, not to produce conformist thinking and promote regurgitation of facts alone. Dance is a perfect forum for creative and participatory learning. Since different students will excel and learn in different ways, it is crucial to include art in their educational experience. Learning new skills, learning academic subjects from a new approach, and having the space for expression and creativity in a supported environment will help to advance the self-esteem and independent thinking in the elementary school student.

A Grand Time at Grand Lake

America's Clogging Hall of Fame Sanctions its First Clogging Competition in Oklahoma

America's Clogging Hall of Fame sanctioned its first competition in the state of Oklahoma on Saturday June 9, 2001, at the Grand Lake National Clogging Contest held at the Grove Civic Center in Grove, Oklahoma.

Dancers from Oklahoma, Texas, Missouri and beyond came together to compete in a variety of dance categories and vie for thousands in trophies and cash prizes.

Coordinator Lou Maiuri, from West Virginia, consulted on the event, which was held as part of the American Heritage Music Festival. "We are very pleased with our turnout this first year," Maiuri said. "We are already planning on next year and hope to offer even more opportunities for the dancers."

The overall grand champion team was the Broken Arrow Trailblazers from Broken Arrow, Oklahoma under the direction of Ken, Lisa and Mindy Beach. The champion duo/duet was Dannon and Taegen Ellis from Sallisaw, Oklahoma and the solo champions were Julie Lamar from Independence, Missouri and Kevin Beach from Broken Arrow, Oklahoma. The flatfoot grand champion was Missy Shinoksi from Kansas City, Missouri.

Happy Campers

Dancers of all ages enjoy
Clog Camp at Brigham
Young University

Middle: The smile on this young dancer's face sums up the opinion of most who attend the yearly Cougar Clogging Classic. In addition to learning lots of new routines and steps, the kids visit a local waterpark and joined in a cloggers scavenger hunt, lights out laser light dance and a bluegrass performance.

Attendees are divided into groups and a theme each year helps the counselors to name their group and come up with cheers and skits.

Bottom: Hundreds of dancers learn a dance for the annual "clog-down", where dancers who perform the routine with no mistakes are awarded prizes. The camp is a part of the BYU workshops and conferences calendar and is coordinated each year by Ed and Vickie Austin and Mark and Debbie Williams.

Toura Toura!

Indiana Cloggers make new friends and perform for old friends during second Europe Tour.

Top: Members of the Circle City Cloggers Elaine Paugh (left) and director Kathy Rucker (far right) join in a workshop with dancers from throughout Denmark during a July 7th clogging day that included workshops by Jeff Driggs of West Virginia, USA and performances by teams from all over the country of Denmark. The event was hosted by Soren Moller and his fiance, Heidi, and their club of dancers in Vissenburg, Denmark.

The group also acted as hosts for the dancers during their stay and many wonderful new friendships were made between the Americans and their Danish clogging friends.

In addition to Denmark and Cloppenberg, the Circle City Cloggers also performed at the prestigious Geuglingen Bluegrass Festival.

Middle: Tina Kipp and her Irish dancers perform during a break in their club night workshop in Cloppenburg, Germany on July 14th. Jeff Driggs and the Circle City Cloggers were guests at the event which was well attended by dancers from throughout Northern Germany.
