FRONT AND CENTER

It's Your Time

Last month, I had the pleasure of returning to Mars Hill College in Western North Carolina to see the annual Spring Concert put on by the Bailey Mountain Cloggers. Last year when I saw this performance, I was so taken by the ability of cloggers from so many different backgrounds and styles to be able to come together to make a team with so much energy and excitement.

This year's concert was the most daring and most stylized I have seen. Mixing traditional clogging with Fosse-esque choreo, wildy percussive dueling-duos, and lyrical grace, the show told the story of a girl trying to make it in show business and finding the road a rocky one. Having seen this group perform throughout the years and seeing many of last season's dancers and how far they have come in their professional growth was amazing.

The performance I saw was the final matinee of a run that included several near sold-out shows. After the curtain fell for the last time and the dancers came out into the audience to greet their friends, families and guest, the sense of finality struck many of them and emotions ran high. Some were graduating seniors who must now reluctantly move on from this experience. I am sure they will always relish the time they had as a part of such an ensemble, and, likely, will look back later longing for the "good old days" at Mars Hill College and the Bailey Mountain Cloggers. These young people gave themselves to a project knowing that it would signal an end for the group as they know it. They gave their all to leave a mark and give a show that would be their legacy to their time.

I recall my similar thoughts the last time I came to see the Mars Hill concert. When you know how long you have to be a part of something, you sense the importance of making your mark. You learn how to be a team player, or be left out, and you learn to relish every moment you have, knowing that one day will be your last curtain call.

Think of your dance program as a limited engagement. This is YOUR time. Make your mark.

Happy Clogging, Jeff Driggs, Editor

The Bailey Mountain Cloggers Spring Concert

The Bailey Mountain Cloggers of Mars Hill College in Mars Hill, North Carolina presented their annual Spring Concert in April.

"The Journey" told the story of Layla, a self-sufficient young woman who gets the opportunity to perform in a successful Appalachian Dance Company. While she is excited about the opportunity to showcase her unrecognized talents and challenge her creative boundaries, her frustration with conservative director Mr. Galloway forces her to quit the show and join the 9 to 5 working world.

After a month of the grind, she phones Mr. Galloway to ask for a chance to come back and shares her vision for the show.

The resulting collaboration results in a spectacular fusion of old and new.

Managing Director Jay Ledford and Assistant Director Brian Staggs created a show that showcases the traditional aspects of clogging, while incorporating innovative staging, costumes and dramatic percussive styles to achieve a truly one of a kind theatre experience.

The Bailey Mountain Cloggers have proven themselves to be a very talented group. Joined by alumni dancers, musicians and guests Mike Curtis, Delohn Collins and others, the group danced, sang and picked their way through a "Journey" that brought the audience to its feet.

Mars Hill College offers a unique experience for cloggers to pursue an education while being a part of a very vital and creative exhibition and competition group that has been bringing home national championships to Mars Hill for many years. For info on the programs, contact Jay Ledford at jledford@mhc.edu.

SPRING FLING 2003 - MOULIN ROUGE !

By Lynne Ogle

Spring Fling celebrated its 18th year in Gatlinburg, Tennessee in March. The weather was beautiful, and everyone came ready to dance to new routines choreographed by our stellar staff. The weekend began with a dance on Thursday night hosted by Trevor DeWitt and Monica White. All the dancers greeted each other, then hit the floor to dance to everything from Betty's Being Bad to the Electric Slide. The night ended at 10:00 p.m. so everyone could get a good night's sleep and visit with their friends. Gatlinburg was beautiful and very well prepared for our group.

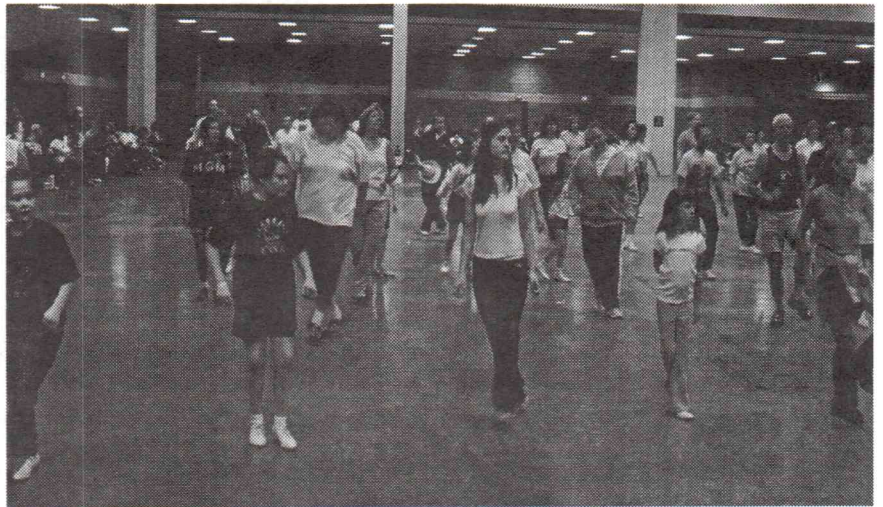

The following morning was an early one with introduction of the staff at 8:30 a.m. and some fun dancing. Everyone then moved on to their level of dance rooms and on the breaks visited the many vendors, who — might we add — had some really cool and different things this year. A few people spent some restful time right outside the door in some beautiful 70 degree weather.

At 4:30, the workshops broke up and the solo and duo-duet competition began. Some 150 dancers competed in this, and everyone had a ball. At 7:00 the exhibitions began and the exhibition competition. The following five teams moved on to finals on Saturday night:
Clog-n-FX Young Adult
Clog-n-FX Senior
Tennessee Hoedowners
Clog-n-FX Jr.
Southern Belles

After watching the dancing, everyone was ready to get on the floor themselves as they attended a dance hosted by Naomi Fleetwood and Jeff Parrott. Who could resist that?

This year we were very fortunate to have a guest to star in the Spring Fling's "Moulin

SPRING FLING 2003 - MOULIN ROUGE

Rouge". Carina Barone, who is Dieter's aunt from Paris, France. Carina has been a model and starred in many movies and now spends her time as an artist. The show was written by Steve Lanning; the routines were choreographed by the different teams that starred in the show. The stage was set aglow with the 10 foot windmill made and designed by Gene and Betty Lambert. The show's highlights were Dieter trying to ride a unicycle, Jeff Driggs riding the unicycle and, of course, his song, the girl's jazz number, and as always, YMCA, and let's not forget Carina. How could you?

After the show everyone gathered for another dance hosted by Jeff Driggs and Scotty Bilz and sponsored by the Double Toe Times magazine. Even after a tiring weekend the room was packed and shirts and miscellaneous items donated by the sponsors, vendors and events were thrown out into the audience. It was so awesome to see Jeff, and Scotty and Josh King and several others out dancing with everyone and doing some of the oldies but goodies. It was like the good old days.

We did have one unfortunate occurrence. Elaine Elliott's husband (who are from Canada) was injured when a car hit him in the crosswalk on the street. The maids of her hotel took her to the hospital and waited to bring her back when they knew Mr. Elliott would be okay. His hospital stay lasted about a week and they were flown back to Canada. Elaine would like to express her thanks to the people at Spring Fling who helped her and especially to Sallie Atkins and Lee Adams. May God bless you Elaine and we are all saying prayers for you. It was good news to hear your husband will be okay.

Mark your calendar for 2004 when Spring Fling will host their 19th year - February 26, 27, 28th. Our staff will be spectacular, Gatlinburg will be spectacular and as they are every year, we know our dancers will be spectacular.

OKTOBERCLOGFEST

The FEEL GOOD Workshop of the Year!

By Diana Manners, Columbus, IN

Columbus Clogging Company's annual Octoberclogfest was October 19, 2002 at Donner Center in Columbus, Indiana and as usual, a good time was had by all! We are so lucky to have our "own" national instructor, Naomi Pyle, as our director and honored to have so many great instructors besides Naomi at the workshop each year. The cast of characters — besides Naomi — included Dieter Brown, Scott Dobson, Stacy McWethy, Rhonda Wilson and Jeff Driggs. All levels of routines were taught to the over 200 dancers from Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Kentucky, Illinois and Texas. These instructors made the day fun for all.

Donner Center is in the middle of a large park so many also enjoyed nature during the breaks. Some of those not into nature went shopping at a nearby mall on the breaks.

The evening fun dance included exhibitions by several groups and individuals as well as reviews of the dances taught that day and dancing to familiar favorites. Several of the instructors and 2 of our dancers collaborated (or maybe that's conspired) in a performance which required an encore later by demand of the crowd. If you can convince Jeff to gather participants to be the "Yankee Doodle Dandies" when he is at a workshop you attend, be sure you do because this hilarious routine is not to be missed. We were weak with laughter and had tears in our eyes during this stirring patriotic performance. If you've seen it, you know what I mean.

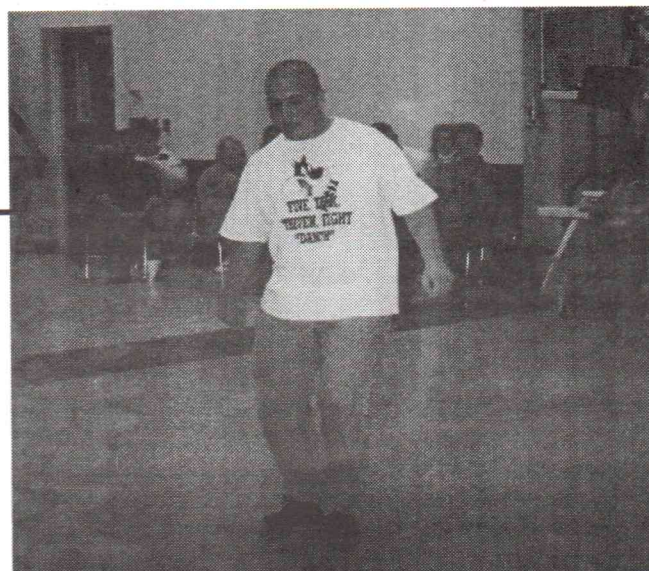

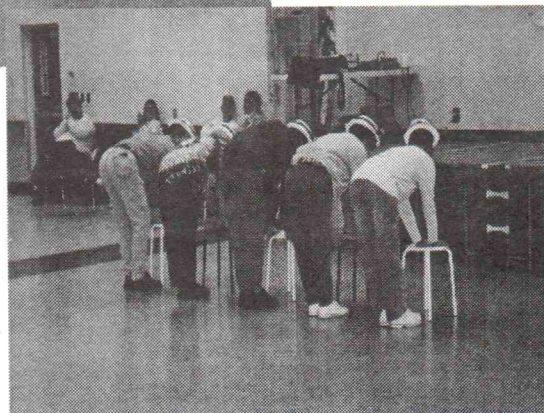

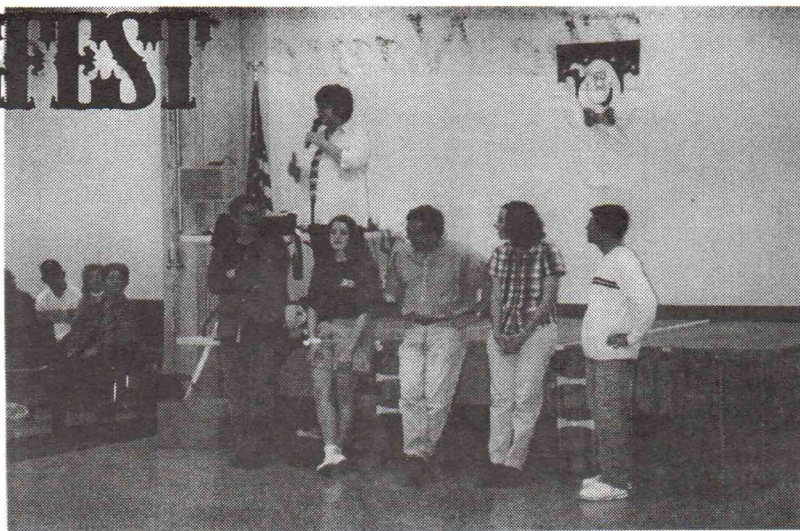

Be sure to set aside an October weekend to join the Columbus Clogging Company at our annual workshop. We always have a great time with great instructors and routines. One of the instructors labeled our workshop the feel good workshop of the year, come experience the feeling!

Competition Corner

by J.L.Harkness

The competition season is a time to absorb all your critiques and perfect your routine. Janet Smith, a judge for Starpower, says, "Go even bigger with your routine and incorporate more difficulty where needed to increase your technique score." You should decide exactly where your arms, hands and head are throughout the routine, according to Patrice Barakat, a judge for Showbiz. Through it all, review your scoresheet and critique tapes as often as possible. "There may be something we write that may [suddenly] 'click' and you say to yourself, 'Now I get it,'" Smith adds.

BREAKIN' IT DOWN

There are certain specifics that judges look for in each category of dance. When it comes to Artistic Expression, Show or Novelty categories, storytelling is at the top of the list. "If it's a show number, tell me the story with your face and movements as if I can't hear the music," says Smith. With jazzy moves, Smith says, "Attack it in the very beginning—make me not take my eyes off of you." Nicole Snelson, a judge for Star Systems, says, "I look for solid technique. I want to see that ample time has been spent at technique when you are out there doing your dance."

COMPETITION TIPS

Becoming a fine-tuned act can lead to a successful competition. Here's a few do's and don'ts:

"Don't put in a technique that is still being worked on or the latest tricky step 'cause everybody is doing it."—Patrice Barakat

"Don't wear too much glitter or bright makeup. It's not necessary. Look into theater makeup and have a makeover day." —Sonya Tayeh, Hall Of Fame Dance Challenge judge

"What makes a solid, strong routine is originality, creative costuming, precise execution of technique and dancers who are well-rehearsed and confident in their choreography." —Densil Adams, Dance Olympus judge

"Stage presence is a must! If a dancer has all this wonderful technique and shows no expression through their number, it becomes boring." —Janet Smith

The #1 Pet Peeve

Overwhelmingly, judges say their number one pet peeve is age inappropriate costuming and choreography. "There is nothing worse than a routine being inappropriate. Dance is an art and should be treated as such," Janet Smith explains. Densil Adams agrees: "As teachers, I feel that it is solely our responsibility to present children as children, and selection of music and costume is an important factor."

Here's a guide to figuring out specifically what judges' comments mean. The comments in aqua were taken from a sample lyrical scoresheet, but most of the phrases could be seen in any category. The quotes in black are from competition judges, credited in parenthesis.

Stage Presence

"Emote with more range" means that you should "tell me the story with your face as if I can't hear the music" (Janet Smith).

"Stay mentally connected and allow the music to move you" means, "Learn how to really listen to the words of the music to allow them to move you throughout the dance" (Sonya Tayeh).

Technical Execution

"Continue to strengthen basic skills." Go through your whole routine step by step and be sure you perfect these basics (J.L.H.).

"Elongate and lift" means that "you have energy in your feet and your upper body is asleep. Concentrate on connecting both of them. Give your whole body the same energy" (Janet Smith.).

"Energy should be coming out every limb of your body" (Patrice Barakat).

Timing & Rhythm

"Don't rush" means that you should be sure to dance in sync with the tempo of your music (J.L.H.).

"Breathe life into the music" is often given to a dancer who is just doing the steps and not feeling the music. Give an emotional life to your dance by making sure you are dancing to a song you truly love, and then express the meaning of the song to the audience. "If you have amazing technique but just a pleasant smile, it's not going to do it for me" (Patrice Barakat).

Choreography/Routine

"Let us see your extension" is a challenge, by the judge to the dancer, to make the routine more technically demanding. Judges write comments like this if they feel the choreography is not showing the dancer's full capabilities (J.L.H.).

"Strengthen stamina" means you need to work on keeping your energy up from beginning to end. "You cannot start the number off with crazy hot energy, then die off halfway through" (Nicole Snelson).

"Consider a theme instead of randomness" is often given when the dancer is not connected to the song and is just doing moves on top of the music. The number one rule to remember in lyrical dances is to tell the story of the lyrics through dance (J.L.H.).

"Don't put in a technique that is still being worked on or the latest tricky step 'cause everybody is doing it."

News ~~Clog Shoes~~

CLOGGING ON TV

Cloggers watching the Wayne Brady Show got a treat last month when Naomi Fleetwood-Pyle and some of her team showed up in the audience and were brought onstage for a little exhibition and a chance to clog with Brady. Earlier this season, clogger Amy Shinn of New Jersey appeared on the show as well!

Percussive Cloggers "All That" finally got their "30 Seconds to Fame" appearance in a super high-energy clogging number that had the crowd on its feet. The show was seen on FOX during May. The group made it to the finals and finished second out of three! Way to go cloggers!

Seven Lakes Sweethearts Cloggers

By Lory Rockwell

The annual show at Seven Lakes was a blast this year. Seems more and more are participating and enjoying the talents of the seniors. The theme was "South Pacific" and we were Honey Buns! As usual, Dee Gallina — our clog instructor — came up with something appropriate and we sure had full doing it.

Unfortunately, we almost did not have Dee with us. What a trooper! She was sick with a fever and somehow took enough medicine to come and perform for the show and then she was gone. Seven Lakes is very pleased to have Dee with her talents supporting our recreation program.

Please share your clogging announcement with us at our new website at
