FRONT AND CENTER

It's a Mad, Mad World

I recently attended a conference as part of my work as Marketing and Communications Administrator with a University Medical School. Yes, Virginia, I do have a "real" job. (ha-ha) As part of the program, a member of a very prestigious American political family who makes documentary films showed a recent project of hers on Appalachia. My colleagues -- all members of higher education or the medical community -- were there to screen this important work documenting the lives of a family from a hollow in the mountains and have a Q & A with the filmmaker.

I was struck by the giggles that ran through the crowd when the documentary's subjects used slang or expressed a penchant for activities considered by most to be "hillbilly." I guess with shows like Jerry Springer that make entertainment out of the most rural elements, it figures. I admit, it becomes such a caricature sometimes you have to laugh.

What affected me the most was the reaction of this audience when the film featured its subjects dancing. In a film that dwelt on the trials and ethics of these people, it was one of the only scenes where you could see real joy. The audience laughed. I think it might be a typical reaction within the context, but I expected more from a group of well-educated people who are in the business of providing care. Still, I was not surprised.

We have so segmented and divided and labeled our society and the expectations we have at every level that the simple pleasures and the traditions that give regionality and flavor to our culture have gone from points of celebration to ridicule. As we enter the end of a particularly fervent political season, some would even attempt to define us socially and culturally as red or blue.

Even within our own dance community, clogging has long felt a struggle to fit in among dance forms that consider it not legitimate or not artistic. The chasm between traditional drag-slide clogging and modern clogging has grown so wide that it has become nearly impossible to describe the form. Ask a young dancer what clogging is and they will say "anything you can do with your feet." Some have changed the name of clogging to "power tap" and "American Step Dance" and other names to reflect the changing look of the dance. Some say it increases interest because calling it "clogging" is not good for marketing.

We are making progress. Within the last few years, clogging has had tremendous public exposure and most everyone that sees a clogging group today will appreciate its energy and audience appeal.

Our ties to that "hillbilly" dance are unmistakable. We are a product of a truly American dance movement. I am very proud of that. Maybe I need to lighten up and giggle along with those who can't understand how tapping your feet in rhythm can bring such joy. There's a Proverb that says those who hear not the music think the dancer's mad. Well, I still feel the joy every time I see clogging in any of its forms. Call me crazy.

Happy Clogging, Jeff Driggs, Editor

Calendar Girls

Dear Jeff,

The magazine is great! The Miami County Cloggers have been very busy this Summer.

First, though, I must give you some personal credit for the existence of the Miami County Cloggers. I first met you in 2000 at "City Slicker Stomp" in Kansas City, Missouri where I spotted you sitting at a table covered with t-shirts, books, etc. You were selling your program, "How to Teach Clog Dancing" instruction book and video. Initially, I was not going to buy anything, but I pulled out my checkbook and made one of the best investments of my life. It gave me the confidence I needed to get started. Now, four years later.. the Miami County Cloggers number around 25.

This summer we danced at the following events:

Relay for Life Cancer walk -
Gardner, KS

The Paola Heartland Car Show -
Paola, KS

Elvis Festival in Kansas City, MO
T-Bones baseball game - Kansas
City, MO

Annual ROOTS Festival - Paola, KS
Church of Latter Day Saints, Paola,
KS (Talent Show)

Spinach Festival - Lenexa, KS

We have been invited to entertain at a local bar, a restaurant, the Light the Night Leukemia walk. Our calendar is full!

It is a great bunch of ladies... and we have a ball. Five of us are booked on the Double Toe Times' Caribbean Cruise next January and we are excited.

I am enclosing a photo taken August 28, 2004 at the Roots Festival in Paola, Kansas!

We are looking forward to seeing you next January.

Editor's Note:

It sounds like you are having a great time! Performing is -- to me -- the most rewarding and energizing part of the clogging activity. It is the best promo for classes and the benefits of clogging, and it gives us all a chance to bring some happiness to others. I think my favorite shows were always the ones at nursing homes or schools for the disabled or challenged. Talk about pure love! You can't beat that kind of a connection with an audience. I am honored that my book was able to be a small part of your clogging journey and I look forward to seeing you all this January.

Kentucky State Clogging Championships

Kentucky Competition celebrates 19 years of honoring clogging's finest dancers

by Jeff Parrott

The 19th annual Kentucky State Clogging Championships were held on Saturday, September 4, 2004 at Georgetown University in Georgetown, Kentucky. The auditorium was filled with over 750 cloggers and spectators who were there for a great day of clogging.

The Kentucky State Clogging Championships were a C.C.A. (Clogging Champions of America) qualifying event, so both amateur and challenge levels were offered in a variety of team events, duos and duets and solos. In addition, the event offered an a capella team event, show duets, short duets and traditional solos. Teams were given a large plaque with all of their age division winnings and the event grand champions took home Kentucky Horse Statues. In addition the grand champions won Kentucky Horses on a trophy base and the grand champion teams won $1,000 and $500 respectively. Each year, the organizers also honor an area clogger for their contributions to clogging. This year, they honored Scott Dobson with the Norvia Burns Award for Clogging Excellence. Scott is well-known as a clogging judge and instructor and was a champion team dance with the legendary Pride and Joy Cloggers of Indiana.

The Kentucky State Clogging Championships is one of the country's longest running competitions. The event began as a clogging contest at an arts and crafts fair then moved to Natural Bridge, Kentucky -- where dancers competed outside on Hoedown Island. The competition grew in size until it became necessary to find a larger venue. After turns in Winchester and Plans are underway for the 2005 event. For information, contact Jeff Parrott at (859) 223-1528.

Grand Lake National Clogging Contest

by Lou Maiuri, ACHF

The fourth annual Grand Lake National Clogging Contest took place on June 12, 2004 at the Grove Civic Center in Grove Oklahoma. The event is held in connection with the American Heritage Music Festival.

This year's festival was a huge success with 23 teams and over 200 dancers competing for $6,000 in prize money. Teams from Oklahoma, Nebraska, Missouri, Arkansas and Colorado competed in the event.

The Clogging Sensation from Ozark, MO was the dominant team this year winning the overall Grand Champion award and over $1000 in prize money. A complete list of winners is attached.

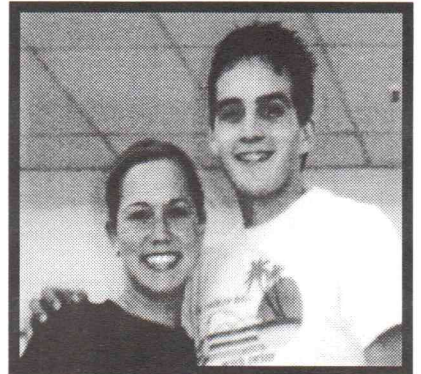

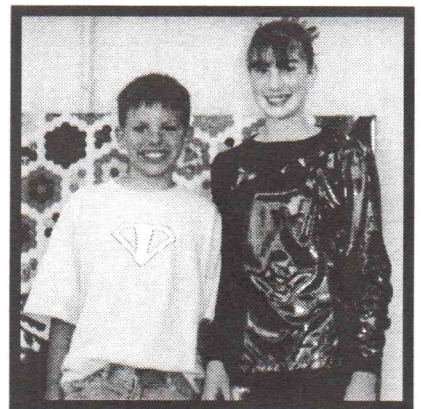

Judges for the competition were Lib Mills, SC, Cindy Noe, NM, Bobby and Rhonda Butzke, TX and Garland Steele from WV. Lou Maiuri was the event coordinator and served as Emcee. Dianne and Linn Loftin from SC were stage managers and took care of team registrations and lineups. Eddie Caruthers from VA was the score keeper. Pat and Kathie Aggus did a super job managing the stage decorations and setting up the Clogging side of the event.

The event was sponsored by the Grand Lake Festival Inc. and the Oklahoma Arts Council.. Also the City of Grove built us a great 1200 hardwood stage that really added to the festival. Hopefully the competition will continue to grow and have a positive economic impact on the Grove area. Thanks guys for a great job.

Next years competition will be held June 11, 2005 and promises to be even better than this year. Next year we'll offer novice solo again and short duos and maybe a dance off for overall team Grand Champion. Teams mark your calendar and practice, practice, practice.

Maryland Ensemble Theater explores meaning of democracy with a dash of... CLOGGING!

by Kate Coleman

Frederick, MD - Staging "Democracy: A Work in Progress" less than six weeks before the 2004 presidential election was not accidental.

It's an appropriate time to ask "What is democracy?" said Tad Janes, artistic director of Maryland Ensemble Theatre.

The theater company had talked about producing a topical work. Serendipitously, playwright and filmmaker Don Thompson contacted MET to see if collaboration might be possible.

The result is the play being presented through Saturday, Oct. 23, in the 111-seat black box theater on the lower level of the former Francis Scott Key Hotel in downtown Frederick.

"Democracy" is a partnership, Janes said.

The work is a montage that looks at democracy - not through partisan eyes - but through thoughts and words of people and periods of world history.

Funny scenes provoke serious thought.

The Greek philosopher Socrates visits a present-day coffee shop. "The Dancing Jeffersons" features the seven cast members - dressed in colonial garb - in a combination minuet, Appalachian clog dance and break dance.

The wife of a man imprisoned for criticizing the government in the time of President John Adams makes a case for his freedom. There's a poignant monologue by a Roman widow whose husband was killed fighting for Caesar.

Thompson said he wrote the words trying to be true to the voices of the times in which the characters lived.

Quotations appear on a screen at the back of the stage. There's a brief pause before the identities of the authors - Abraham Lincoln, Thomas Jefferson, Winston Churchill, Vladimir Lenin and Herman Goering among them - are revealed.

Members of the company came up with the quotations, Thompson said. The ones that made the cut were voted to the stage - democratically.

Teen steps up to challenge of opening clogging studio

By Ivy Vogel, Post Independent Writer
Post Independent - Glenwood Springs, CO

Brigit Hartop doesn't have her MBA, she's too young to legally buy beer, and November is the first time she will be allowed to vote.

Hartop doesn't view her lack of experience as a daunting, intimidating challenge. She sees it as an endless road of opportunity.

On Sept. 6, Hartop, 18, will open a clogging studio called the Rocky Mountain Dance Company. The classes will meet every Monday for a month and will cost $20, Hartop said.

Clogging is a form of American folk-dancing.

Hartop is opening her own studio because she wants to liven up traditional clogging styles.

Usually cloggers dance to bluegrass and folk music. Hartop's dancers will move to swing music and rock 'n' roll.

"I didn't really have a business plan," said Hartop. "All the major life decisions I've made I've just decided to do and moved on from there."

When she was 11, Hartop started flying planes.

When she was 15, she had her first article published in a children's magazine, and when she was 16, Hartop - who was home schooled - decided to take her General Equivalency Diploma test.

"There certainly are obstacles in everything that I do," Hartop said. "But I just have a passion that gets it done."

Every one of the five children in the Hartop family found a passion at a young age and pursued it into adulthood, said Gayle Hartop, Brigit's mother.

Hartop's sister fell in love with classical music at a young age and is now a violinist in the Grand Junction Symphony.

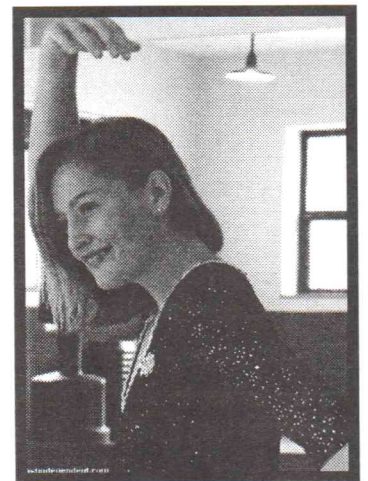

Hartop's brother loved computers and is now a computer programmer.

Exposing children to many different things allowed them to find success in things they love, Gayle said.

"Brigit is the person that wakes up every morning and literally says, 'Isn't this a great morning?'" Gayle said.

Three students have signed up for Brigit's class. Brigit hopes more students will sign up so she can have beginning, intermediate and advanced clogging classes.

"I'm inspired by a genuine love of life," Hartop said.

A listing in the Double Toe Times exclusive Instructors and Dancers Directory entitles you to list your events, competitions and festivals in the Upcoming Events column free of charge. The Directory is also a valuable source for networking, marketing and promotion. A bullet (■) in front of the Instructor or dancer's name indicates that this person can, and does, promote old-time clogging and traditional dancing.
