FRONT AND CENTER

Keep the Music Playing

We lost a true friend to clogging with the passing of Richard Jett. Richard ran the clogging dances at Hoedown Island in Slade, Kentucky for more than 40 years and was influential in the promotion of clogging as a family activity for generations.

As with the loss of anyone who makes major contributions to a community, people are swirling to see who can fill such big shoes and do it with the style and passion that Richard did. Understanding the scope of the job means understanding Richard's level of commitment to this art.

Richard ran dances on Friday and Saturday nights on a large concrete pad with bleachers and a small open front building on end for the tourists and locals that visited the Kentucky State Park at Slade. A keen eye for talent, Richard also showcased your singers and created a group to promote them. He hosted tours, was a schoolteacher and Superintendent of Schools and even was Mayor of the town of Campton, Kentucky.

Thousands of cloggers have danced on the Island throughout the years and countless others got their first look at clogging from his programs. I remember as a brand new clogger coming to the Island with fellow West Virginians and being amazed at the social ease of the place and the skill that Richard had of getting total strangers up on a dancefloor under the Kentucky stars on a Saturday night to do the "Cattle Call" mixer or "Settin' the Woods on Fire." Someone told Richard that I could sing, and for more than 20 years I was always asked to sing "Amazing Grace" when I made a visit to the Island. As much as I get embarrassed to sing at a clogging event, I never minded to sing for Richard. It was a tradition that I had come to expect and was worth it to see how he always sat back and beamed whenever he laid down the mic and let a performer take the spotlight.

You see, the key to Richard Jett's wonderful success in clogging and in life was not the great things that he did (and he certainly did many) but the fact that none of his efforts were done for his own edification. Everything Richard did was for the dancers and singers he admired and the audiences he adored sharing them with. He gave back to the schools that he was so dedicated to and gave back to the community that he was a part of, because he truly had a heart for others. Even as he was stricken during the start of his dance program, his concern was that someone would keep playing the music.

As long as there are people like Richard Jett to emulate and inspire us, I think we can always keep the music playing.

Happy Clogging!

Jeff Driggs, Editor

Remembering Richard Jett

Clogging's Goodwill Ambassador Passes at 73

Compiled from information in the Three Forks Tradition Newspaper, the Appalachian Troubadours website and various sources.

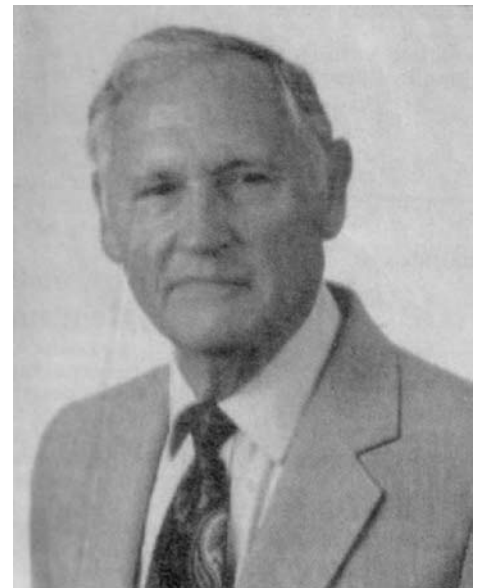

He died at one of his favorite places in the world, doing what he liked best. Richard Jett, Natural Bridge Kentucky's and the art of clogging's goodwill ambassador died Fri, Aug. 25, 2006 from an apparent heart attack. He was a native of Breathitt County, Kentucky, a retired educator, former Mayor of Campton, Kentucky and owner and operator of the Richard Jett Tours of Campton. He was also, unquestionably, one of the most beloved friends clogging has ever had.

Richard was the "caller-of-the-sets" for square dancing programs for 40 years at "Hoedown Island" at Natural Bridge State Resort Park in Powell County, Kentucky. The weekly programs have been held on Saturdays from May through October, and on Friday evenings from June through August. Thousands of people have danced with Richard on the island and at festivals and fairs throughout the years. Richard and his wife, Jean, also operated a tour company and took many people on road trips to his favorite country music cities, including Nashville, Tennessee and Branson, Missouri.

Photos: Right: Richard Jett organized and taught old time squares and was a tireless promoter of clogging and square dance as a wholesome family activity. He showcased hundreds of groups during his Weekend dances at Hoedown Island at Natural Bridge State Park in Slade, Kentucky. Here a young team of dancers performs for a Hoedown Island crowd in 1969.

Richard Jett's Love of country music ran as deep as his love of the hills of Kentucky. He was an occasional song-writer and creator of "The Appalachian Troubadours," a collection of young singers and musicians from his area.

The creation of the Appalachian Troubadours began with a dream... a dream of a small boy who wished to become a famous country music singer on the Grand Ole Opry. In his early teens, Richard Jett spent hours listening to country legends like Porter Wagoner, Bill Monroe, and Patsy Cline as they sang to him through his little transistor radio. Richard dreamed of standing on stage, performing for thousands of fans, just like Johnny Cash. Yet, with adulthood, came reality and the hard truth that not everyone is born to be a star. As he once said "I couldn't carry a tune in a bucket!" Still, that didn't close the door on his passion for country music.

Richard H. Jett
1923 - 2006

Richard Jett realized that he had other talents. Through the years, Richard acquired a college degree that started his careers as educator and businessman. Yet, his professions of high school Principal, Superintendent, nationally recognized Square Dance Caller, and Richard Jett Tours owner and manager fell short of filling the void that lay in his heart.

Remembering

One day he promised himself, he would see his life long dream come true. That time came on President's Day 1990. Richard could finally pursue his passion for music, not by becoming a country singer himself, but by helping talented youngsters and teenagers, in his area, make their dreams come true. His goal was simple, though he couldn't sing and make it to Nashville, he would help those who could. His dream started unfolding around him as 14 young people attended tryouts for a group that later became The Appalachian Troubadours. Richard's hard work, determination, and business connections opened many doors for young talent; talent that otherwise may have never been heard. Members of the group still grace the stages of The Renfro Valley Barn Dance and Jamboree, The WSM Midnight Jamboree in Nashville (the Grand Ole Opry's official radio show), Paramount's King's Island, the Mountain Arts Center (home of the Kentucky Opry), The Lincoln Jamboree, Rupp Arena and other attractions in Appalachia.

In addition to young singers, Richard also was a tireless advocate and promoter of traditional clogging and square dancing. His Hoedown Island dances always featured old time squares and showcased clogging groups from around the country. Teams from as far away as Maryland would dance each year on his schedule and every team in the Kentucky/Ohio area was honored to be invited to perform during the Hoedown Island season. For many young cloggers it was a huge honor to be asked to dance in the Hoedown Island "parking lot" hoedown, a dance group assembled during the dance and choreographed in the parking lot that would perform before the crowds at the island.

Richard Jett was inducted into the America's Clogging Hall of Fame in Maggie Valley, North Carolina in 1991. He will be missed and his contributions to clogging and his legacy will continue on.

Photos: Top: Richard's group, the Appalachian Troubadours continue to sing through out the state of Kentucky, performing at an assortment of functions such as, the KY State Parks, festivals, benefits, school events, company dinners, RECC meetings, and church socials. Various genres of music fill their repertoire including Country, Bluegrass, Gospel, Cajun, Oldies, Soul, Classic Pop, and even Big Band.

Grand Lake National Clogging Competition

Annual Clogging Contest Offers Thousands in Cash Prizes and Showcases Traditions

By Lou Maiuri, ACHF

The sixth annual Grand Lake National Clogging Competition took place on June 10, 2006 at the Grove Civic Center in Grove Oklahoma. Over 200 dancers competed for more than $6,000.00 in cash and awards. Teams from Oklahoma, Arkansas and Missouri took part in the competition.

The Trailblazers from Broken Arrow, Ok were the top team, winning the $1,000.00 Grand Champion Prize money. Jeff and Jennifer Moore from Coweta, OK were the overall solo male and female Grand champion winners. Pat Dennis from Springfield, MO was the Flatfoot Grand Champion. Pat Dennis was there with her traditional team and competed in all of the traditional categories and took home a pocket full of prize money.

The event coordinator was Lou Maiuri from Summersville, WV and the event was sponsored by Grand Lake Festivals and the City of Grove, OK.

Judges for this years competition were Ann Moore, TX, Lib Mills, SC, Clyde Bubba Richardson, TN, Eddie Caruthers, VA and Wayne Honeycutt from NC. Jeff Driggs from WV was the scorekeeper.

Pat and Kathie Aggus were in charge of stage and civic center set up and did a great job. Dianne Loftin was in charge of registration, Linn Loftin was in charge of team line ups and Ken Beach was the sound tech.

Next year's competition will be held on June 09, 2007 and we plan to do more in the way of prize money to encourage teams to enter more of the traditional categories. Also we'll have Grand Champion traditional solo prize money and traditional duo/duet grand champion prize money.

For more information contact Lou Maiuri of the America's Clogging Hall of Fame at the number listed in the advertisement in this issue.

English Clogging in Lancashire in the 1800's and 1900's

By Walter Hurst

English clogs or wooden-soled shoes were primarily worn by underground coal miners, other pit workers such as the 'pit brow lasses' who worked on the surface hand-grading lumps of coal or pushing the loaded coal waggons between the colliery buildings, and by the many thousands of cotton mill workers in the 1800s and early 1900s.

Indeed wherever it was damp or wet underfoot, clogs were the preferred footwear due to their cheapness (to buy and to repair), their long-lasting wear, and their comfort. But they always were (and still are) associated with the abject poverty endemic in the industrial towns of the North of England of the 19'th c.

"My grandad started it off in 1898, when he was 26 ... I think his first week's takings were thirty bob." [That was 30 shillings or 30s 0d = £1.50 today].

"Grandad" was Walter Hurst of Hindley, who later had six cloggers and a shoe repairer working for him. Most cloggers were one-man businesses working from the front room of their houses.

"The price of a pair of size 8 pit clogs was 3s 2d." [That is about 16p today.] "The profit on this was 5½d." [That's about 2p today].

"They might have had a best pair of clogs or a pair of night or 'neet' clogs as they say round here, which were fancy pattern clogs."

Clog Making

"Everything from start to finish was made on the premises. The things which were not made on the premises were clog irons, clog rubbers, and nails. Everything else was made here."

"It took two hours to make the sole and a further two hours to make the uppers. The uppers were cowhide, the soles alder." [Now-a-days beech is used which is inferior because it tends to split.]

"The wood first came from Wales. It came in blocks ... and these were brought to Hindley North Station and were brought down by carrier ... these blocks were stored to season ... they were all moved round about and the ones nearest the door were used, they probably had them two or three years by then."

"The irons were made at Atherton ... a chap called Jim Naylor ... Naylor's Ironworks at Atherton."

Up and Down Fighting

Clog fighting, locally called 'purring' was a means of settling disputes. Both the fighting and the betting among spectators was illegal.

"It is all up and down fighting here. They fought quite naked, excepting their clogs. When one has the other down on the ground he first endeavours to choke him by squeezing his throat, then he kicks him on the head with his clogs. Sometimes they are very severely injured."

Clog Dancing

Lancashire is known for its clog dancing all over the world. Cotton mill workers could emulate the sound of the cotton looms with their clogs. Miners partook of formal dance competitions at the working men's clubs for small monetary prizes. Afterwards the winner usually then had to fight the losers to keep his prize! National competitions such as the World Clog Dancing Championships were keenly attended and the winner

Lancashire Clogs

These wooden soled shoes, with 'irons' (strips of steel attached underneath like a horseshoe), were the everyday footwear of working people until the turn of the century.

Unlike the more famous Dutch clogs, Lancashire clogs have a leather upper and lace up like ordinary shoes. The sole is normally carved from a fairly hard wood, like oak or beech and shod with irons to stop the wood from wearing away. Lancashire clogs are still worn as an industrial safety shoe in some industries, however, modern boots with man made soles have made them less common.

The clogs worn for dancing tend to be more ornate than ordinary clogs, with engraving in the leather (the Yorkshire rose is popular) and a long tongue to which the bells are attached. The sole is fastened to the upper with brass pins and a brass strip (or toe-tin) protects the front of the toe from scuffing.

Street corner dancing was the entertainment of the day. Indeed clog and step dancing was THE most popular form of home entertainment in the 1800s.

The predominant style of Lancashire clog dancing was termed 'heel and toe,' but with the influx of thousands of Irish immigrants into the mills and factories another hybrid style of dancing also evolved called 'Lancashire-Irish.' Yet another more unstructured style of dancing came from the canal folk who worked the wide boats on the Leeds and Liverpool Canal and who 'danced' in time to the single stroke bolinder engine. Bill Gibbons was the last canal boat dancer. It was said that the canal boat-people were the better dancers and nearly always won the informal dance competitions in the canal-side pubs of an evening.

Exponents of clog dancing would often become professional music hall dancers as a route out of the poverty and squalor of living in the crowded and polluted mill towns of that time.

One notable Lancashire clog dancer who ultimately succeeded was of course Charlie Chaplin who performed in a troupe called the 'Seven Lancashire Lads,' he was but one of many thousands of clog dancers. In his early days the great Dan Leno was also a World Champion clog dancer, and other professional and amateur dancers would attend his every performance to try and learn his steps. Indeed it has been reported that most music hall artists had a clog dance in their repertory and that if his/her act was failing to entertain a rowdy audience then breaking into a clog dance could save the act.

These music hall clog dancers took stage clog dancing not only to the U.S.A. but also to Canada, Australia and New Zealand - for the summer season in both hemispheres. And in the U.S.A. stage clog dancing (with wooden-soled shoes) took on a tradition all of its own (see: Tony Barrand's web site on the 'Dancing Marleys').

Dancing clogs were more like the night or 'neet' clogs, they did not have irons or soles and were lighter than the heavier working clogs. The uppers were usually highly tooled (decorated) and often coloured.

True English (and Scottish and Welsh) clog dancing is still enjoyed by many enthusiasts around the world, many having been taught by traditional dancers such as Pat Tracey, Sam Sherry and Bert Bowden.

Unfortunately there are only a very small number of clog makers left from the many hundreds who traded in the late 1800s and early 1900s. There are however many old and modern films and videos of clog makers and clog dancers, and these can be found through web research.

"Lancashire Clog" was a form of dance popular throughout the English-speaking world, popularised by professional dancers such as the Music-Hall great, and Champion Clog Dancer of the World, Dan Leno. Even the young Charlie Chaplin started his career as a clog dancer.

Lancashire Dialect

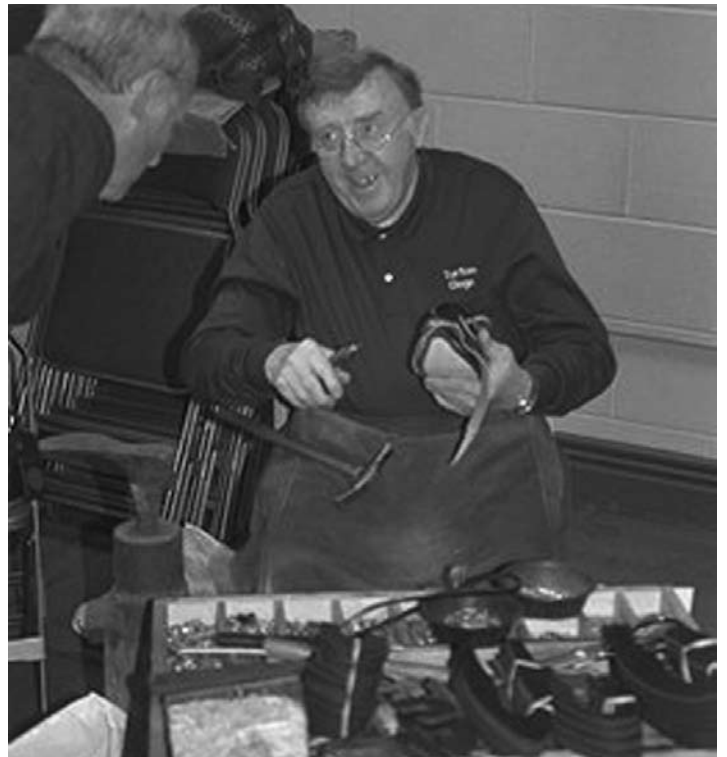

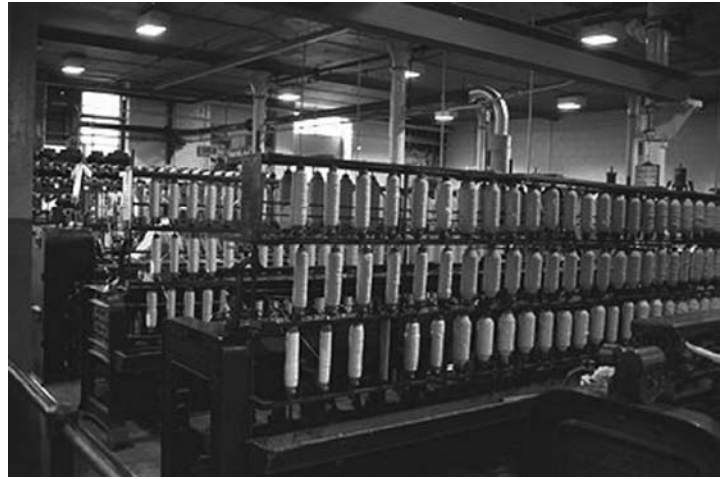

No article about Lancashire clogging would be complete without some poetry in the clipped dialect which evolved in the noisy environment of the 19th c. cotton looms.

IT DIDN'T SEEM REET - Anon.

Wen a fella cum walkin' deawn eawr road,
'Is clogs went "er—clatt, er—clatt."
An' it struck mi, as Ah'd never knowed
A pair o' clogs t'seawnd like that.
Soo Ah waited wile 'ee getten close,
Fer t'see wot wer th'matter,
Clogs doant "er—clatt, er—clatt" tha knows
Thi should guh "clatt—er, clatt—er!"
Ah thowt, "Just wen 'as passes mi
Ah'll 'ev a looka t'greawnd,
Cause Ah wer fair reet wonderin'
O'er th'reason feryon seawnd.
Sos wen 'ee sad, "Nah then theer,"
Wen 'ee passed mii' th' street,
Ah looked, an' does ta know
Booath 'is clogs wero' t'wrong feet.

THE CLOG MAKER - Anon.

Young Jim he were a clogger,
Wi'a workshop, up some steps.
Ther'l be lots o' folk a warin,
those fancy clogs'e meks.
'e cuts the soles from wooden blocks,
wi a fancy shaped machine,
An clever folk've coed it, A clogger's guillotin
An when e's finished shapen' soles,
An tacked'is leather round,
'e's ready then fer buckle on, An pattin' toe-caps down.
A can see'im now a shapin' Some very pointed soles,
'e sez ther for a clog-dancer,
'who puts on special shows.
An'then thers bread and butter clogs,
which Jim meks by the score,
An'when ther blacked and polished up,
Ther ready for the store.
But one thing's sure, ther is no doubt,
For warin on yer feet.
Yo canna beat Jims wooden clogs, becoz ther med just reet.

Foot Notes

Rise & Shine Get Orchestrated

By Taylor Township, IN

"Sing, sing, sing" doesn't exactly sound like a number for a dancer. And cloggers performing with an eighty piece orchestra may sound like a strange combination. But for the Rise & Shine Cloggers and the Bloomington Pops Orchestra, the mix is creating quite a stir. Rise & Shine performed "America's step dance" in a July 4th celebration in Bloomington, Indiana in front of over 5,000 hometown folks. This isn't the first time Rise & Shine has added clogging elements to an orchestra event. They have performed with a number of orchestras and are scheduled to do more. For this event, team directors Jon Hasler and Dustin Stephan choreographed to Louie Prima's "Sing, sing, sing" and "Turkey in the Straw". "Our part of the stage is fifty feet wide but only about six feet deep, so there is not a lot of room for movement or team choreography" says Jon, "Instead we work with the music adding fast leg kicks, buck sound patterns, jazz and duo work." "We throw in everything but the kitchen sink!" adds Dustin. Rise & Shine have enjoyed the positive energy generated from audiences at these types of events. Jon states, "Live orchestra power and clogging together make for a dynamic combination."

Horseshow Cloggers of IN ask for Prayers for Family of Dancer Killed in Tragic Accident

by Janet Kingery Horseshoe Cloggers Wheatfield, IN

On Friday, September 22, one of our dancers and her dad were killed in an automobile accident. Sara Rollins, 16, danced with the Horseshoe Cloggers for 9 years. Sara's mom, sister and brother were injured but not critically. They are out of the hospital now. Please pray for her family and her clogging family as there is a dim spot on our dance floor now. She lit up the room with her smile.

Doubletoe Times Choreographers Contest

The Doubletoe Times loves to share great original choreography with our readers. We would like to offer the opportunity for you to win a great prize by sharing the routines you write with our readers. Beginning September 1, 2006 through December 31, 2006 please send us your routines in any level or musical style. Each routine sent will put your name in a drawing for a brand new wireless microphone that you can use for your classes, shows or workshops.

Rules

1. Choreography must be received between September 1 and December 31, 2006 for inclusion in contest.
2. Choreography must not have been printed in a past issue of the Double Toe Times.
3. Choreography submitted must be written or co-written by the person sending it in. No submissions of others work and "taught by"
4. Cue sheets must be typed or produced in one of the following formats (word, excel, pdf). No hand written cue sheets.

Send you cue sheets (as many as you like - each is a separate entry) to:

Doubletoe Times Cuesheets c/o doubletoetimes@aol.com or mail to P. O. Box 1352 St. Albans, WV 25177-1352

Clogging Instructors and Dancers Direc-

A listing in the Double Toe Times exclusive Instructors and Dancers Directory is a valuable source for networking, marketing and promotion. A shoe in front of the Instructor or dancer's name indicates that this person can, and does, promote old-time clogging and traditional dancing. Cloggers world-wide use this resource to reach fellow cloggers and teachers. To add your name, visit our website at www.doubletoe.com and click on "subscribe" to fill out a directory form.

A Gift for You for Your Students

The Double Toe Times is proud to help you recognize the hard work of your clogging students to complete a series of classes by giving you a supply of "clogging diplomas" to hand out at your graduation night. The diplomas are on glossy paper stock with a colorful diploma design that features a clog dancer, a place for you to sign, and the following wording:

Diploma of Graduation
This certifies that has satisfactorily Double-Stepped,

Rocked, Shuffled and Brushed through a course of study prescribed for graduation and is therefore awarded this
Bachelor of Clog Dancing Degree

Just drop us an email or letter, fax or letter to let us know how many diplomas you will need. Please make sure you allow at least 2 weeks to make sure we can get the diplomas to you through U.S. regular mail. Canadian and foreign readers allow 4 weeks.

These diplomas are not made available for resale to vendors, and are intended for use by clogging teachers to provide to students only. You must be a subscriber to the Double Toe Times to be eligible.

To order graduation diplomas for your classes, write, fax or email us at:
