Bluegrass to Teach With, Call Square Dances and Learn Fun Line Dances!

Music for Clogging by Jeff Driggs

This CD contains 4 great old time bluegrass songs that will get your hands clappin' and your toes tappin'. Old Joe Clark is recorded with a starting temp that is very slow, then every 64 beats there is an 8 beat tempo change that speeds the music up just a little. This is a great track for teaching beginner classes, working on new steps or styling. Old Joe Clark is also included in a full tempo version.

The other tracks on this CD project are renditions and medleys of old time tunes with routines choreographed by Jeff Driggs of West Virginia and Naomi Pyle of Indiana. Cue sheets for these dances are included in this insert.

Reality Bites

So many cloggers have appeared on television the last few years, that I think it is about time that we had looked back at some of the dance shows of the past and updated them with clogging as the focus... whattayathink?

Dancing with the Stars

An hour long show in which clogging instructors have one hour to teach Hollywood's elite to clog. Series premiere features Brad Pitt and Angelina Jolie and brood doing a show routine to "We Are Family," as well as Rosie O'Donnell, who clog dances on photos of Elizabeth Hasselback and Donald Trump. Parental guidance is suggested.

So You Think You Can Dance?

A two hour long dance competition show in which beginner clogging students are thrown onto a stage, "Orange Blossom Special" is played at full speed (the long version) and dancers do their best to keep up.

American Bandstand

Forever young-looking Naomi Fleetwood-Pyle hosts this Saturday morning show that lets cloggers try their best to dance to any song in the top forty with has acceptable lyrics. The show is 3 minutes long.

Solid Gold

Scotty Bilz and his solid orange jersey backup dancers dance to the top ten hits of the week.

Dance Fever

In an effort to cash in on the reality television craze, cloggers exhibiting flu-like symptoms are pitted against each other in a competition to see who can make it through an eight minute hoedown.

The Arthur Murray Party

A show for the geriatric clogging community in which a cue sheet is flashed on the screen and then the song is played to see how much of it anyone can remember without a cuer. A lot of freestyling is featured. Special thanks to sponsors metamucil and Dr. Scholls.

Of course it's all in fun... In reality, dance has always been a part of what America watches on television. Isn't it great to hear the word "clogging" being mentioned on these shows?

Happy Clogging!

Two Cloggers Dance Their Way Onto Reality TV

From a story by Debra McCown
Reporter / Bristol Herald Courier

ABINGDON, Va. — This summer, two Virginia cloggers appeared on reality TV shows.

Dance teacher Kim Fore and one of her students appeared on separate shows — Fore, of Glade Spring, on ABC's "Dance Machine," and 8-year-old Kayla Thomas, of Abingdon, on a show called, "The Next Child Superstar."

"I never dreamed that this would happen, but I just kind of went for it," Fore said of her competition, which began airing July 11. "It was a great experience for me, and I think it will show my students that there's opportunities out there for them as well."

Being from a small town, she said she hasn't had many of the opportunities available in larger cities, but opportunities are out there. She said she spends hours searching for them on the Internet.

Among the opportunities she has found were the audition for "The Next Child Superstar."

"This [performing on reality TV] kind of completed a lot of goals for me that I had, and now that I've gotten older, I have really focused on my career with my studio and finding opportunities for these other talented kids that are coming up," Fore said. "I want them to be able to make it somewhere big."

She said she started dancing at age 4 and started dance lessons in her home at age 13. She later expanded to a friend's basement and then to a studio on the town square in Glade Spring.

Now her dance studio, Xtreme Dance Company, has locations in Abingdon and Chilhowie, Virginia, and she is preparing to expand to a third location.

Kayla studies several styles of dance, but she clogged to the song "Black Betty" in the competition.

"I'm going to be clogging because it's probably the best dance I do," Kayla said, adding she enjoys dancing "because it's fun."

Kayla said she enjoyed performing on TV, and she wants to be a heart doctor or a veterinarian when she grows up, but she also wants to keep dancing.

In addition to the show taped on June 29, Kayla dances on a competition team and is traveling to New York in July to perform.

"I feel like it could be a good thing for her because she loves to entertain and that's her opportunity to entertain everybody that watches it," her mother, Dawn Thomas, said of the program. "I think some reality shows aren't good, but I think this one is about the kids."

She said Kayla started dancing at age 3 and loved it from the start.

"I'm excited for her. ... I'm hoping that it will help her get other opportunities," Thomas said. "She has a lot of talent, and I feel like if we get on there and they videotape her ... they'll see what talent she does have."

Fore impressed the judges on her first appearance and made it through to the next rounds of competition. Full episodes of "Dance Machine" can be viewed online at www.abc.com under "full episodes."

Nobody's Perfect

By Cassidy Smith

"Good afternoon, class," spoke Ms. Rose. "Good afternoon, Ms. Rose," replied her students. "Today, as you all know, is our last practice in the studio. Tuesday is our very first recital, ever!" said Ms. Rose.

Oh great, thought Olivia. Just wait till I embarrass myself! You see, Olivia was an only child of Claudia Lansky. And Claudia Lansky was probably the world's most pushiest mother ever. Olivia's mom has always wanted her to take dance ever since she was a little girl. She had always talked Olivia into taking clogging lessons every single year. Olivia didn't really hate dancing, she just didn't like performing in front of a big audience, with her mother in it. She had no rhythm or coordination. She didn't want her mother to see how awful she was. She wanted to be perfect!

After the class had finished practicing their dance routines, they all sat down, took off their clogging shoes, and headed out the door. "I'll see you later, Viv," said one of Olivia's best friends Madelyn on her way out the door. "Yeah, I'm catching a ride with Madelyn, so I'll see you at school tomorrow!" shouted Olivia's other best friend, Karsen.

As Olivia was leaving the studio, she noticed something out of the corner of her eye. She reached down and picked up a pair of hot pink clogging shoes that were hiding behind a seat in the lobby. They had sparkles all over and were shining with pride. "Wow! I wonder who these belong to," she said out loud. Out of curiosity, Olivia slipped them on her small feet and did her favorite clogging step. "Wow! That was the best I've ever done!" she shouted. Then, she tried the hardest clogging step she could think of. Olivia did it perfectly. "Holey moley!" she cried. "That was AMAZING!" Olivia practiced six more steps until the verdict was chosen. "These clogging shoes are magic. Magic!" she announced.

HONK! HONK!
Just then Olivia heard her mom

honking the horn outside. Wondering what she should do with the magical shoes, Olivia quickly slipped them into her bag and headed out the door.

Safe in her bedroom, Olivia pulled the magical clogging shoes out of her bag and hid them under her bed. What should I do with these shoes? I can't just steal them! She thought. I know what I'll do; I'll just use them for the recital Tuesday and put them back in the studio when we go back to class Wednesday. Pleased, Olivia took a quick shower and hopped in bed to prepare for the busy week ahead.

The next day, which was Monday, Olivia went to school. Olivia was in the sixth grade at Benjamin Franklin Middle School. Before she entered her homeroom class, Madelyn yanked her backpack. "Olivia! Wait up!" she shouted. "I have something important to tell you, so sit by me today." "Okay," replied Olivia. Olivia and Madelyn made their way to their favorite seats, the two by the window, and set their books down. "Hurry, tell me before Mr. Brooks starts the roll," said Olivia. "Alright. Well, yesterday after class, Ms. Rose noticed that a pair of her clogging shoes were missing. She said that the famous clogger, Melanie Oswald, had given them to her and they are very "special". She's afraid that someone may have stolen them and might sell them for a lot of money because they were Melanie's. They seem really important to her," said Madelyn. "Whoever stole them must be really greedy." "Yeah," said Olivia. "Do you know who took them?" asked Madelyn. "N-No. I don't have a clue," replied Olivia. Olivia felt awful. She felt completely guilty about it. Not only taking the magic clogging shoes, but also lying to her best bud.

Olivia was worried all day. And all that night she worried. And all the next day. And finally, the night of the recital came about and she was as worried as ever.

Olivia started walking backstage in the auditorium. She began thinking of what she should do. She had three things bugging her mind:

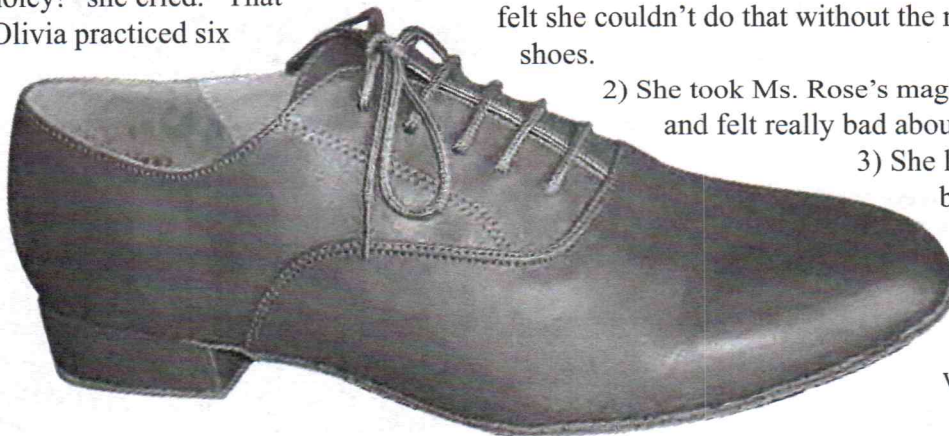

1) Olivia wanted to dance perfectly for her mom, but she felt she couldn't do that without the magical clogging shoes.

2) She took Ms. Rose's magical clogging shoes and felt really bad about it. And

3) She lied to one of her best friends about the magical clogging shoes.

Olivia then tried to decide which she would rather do: Choice A: Wear the magical clogging shoes to impress her mom. Ms. Rose will think she's a thief and Madelyn will call her a liar and that would be the end of their friendship OR Choice B: Don't wear the magical clogging shoes and give them to Ms. Rose and tell her and Madelyn the whole story. She won't dance very well, but at least Madelyn will still be her friend if she told the truth.

It wasn't an easy decision, but she chose Choice B because it definitely sounded the best.

She walked toward Ms. Rose's dressing room backstage and knocked on the door. "Who is it?" asked Ms. Rose. "It's Olivia Lansky," Olivia replied. "Oh! Do come in," answered Ms. Rose. The door opened and Olivia stepped inside and closed the door behind her. "Ms. Rose, I need to talk to you about something really important," she said. "I have about 10 minutes till showtime. Go ahead," responded Ms. Rose. "Well, yesterday Madelyn told me about those special clogging shoes of yours that were missing and asked me if I knew who took them, and I do," she hesitated. "I took them after practice Sunday. I didn't know whose they were then. I tried them on and they fit." "I knew it was wrong, but they made me dance spectacularly! I wanted to do perfect at the recital for my mom, but I didn't think it was a good thing to do. I just wanted to make her proud. I'm sorry, Ms. Rose. I am really sorry." Olivia handed Ms. Rose the magical clogging shoes. Ms. Rose just sat down and looked at Olivia. "Olivia, I am shocked. I never knew that you would do something like that," spoke Ms. Rose. "But, I understand your feelings about making your mother proud. I can relate to you. I am really proud of you being honest and turning in the shoes. Thank you. I also accept your apology." Olivia answered, "Thank you, Ms. Rose. I feel a load off my shoulders."

"Olivia, I want you to go out there and do the best you can do. Don't worry about your mother; she wants to see you having fun out there! And...five minutes till show time!" shouted Ms. Rose.

Olivia and Ms. Rose left the dressing room and walked to the stage area. Olivia was nervous! She stood by her classmates as they waited for their performance. They were the last group. At last, it was their turn. Olivia felt confident. She was happy she told the truth. Olivia smiled and smiled while she clogged and didn't look for her mother in the audience. She just danced the best she could! Her class finally finished their two dances and Olivia had only made a few mistakes!!! The crowd gave a standing ovation as she and her classmates bowed. "We did great!" Karsen spoke cheerfully. "I know!" Madelyn shouted. "I can't believe it's over, though."

Karsen's family walked up. "Honey! You did great! Do you wanna eat out tonight? We need to hurry before the crowd gets there," her dad said as he grabbed his daughter's hand. "Alright. Bye Mady and Olivia! See you later," Karsen said as she left the auditorium.

"Mady, you're sleeping over at my house tonight! Come on, let's go find my mom," spoke Olivia. They found her mom in the back of the auditorium trying to weave her way through the crowd to get to the stage. "Excuse me!" she shouted at a large woman who jumped right in front of her. The woman glared at her.

"Mom! How did I do?" Olivia asked. "You did wonderful! I'm so proud!" she shouted. "Really?" Olivia's eyes were bulging out of her head. "Yes! Now we gotta get home! What'd'ya want to pick up for supper?" she asked. "Pizza!" Olivia and Madelyn shouted in unison.

Once they had eaten supper and were in Olivia's room getting out the sleeping bags, she decided to tell Madelyn about the shoes. This was gonna be easy because Olivia was just gonna tell the truth right out. "Hey, Mads, I took Ms. Rose's clogging shoes Sunday after practice. I wanted to wear them because they are magical and made me dance perfectly. I'm sorry I lied to you. Do you forgive me?" she asked. "Why, Olivia, I don't know what to say." She answered. "Did you give them back to Ms. Rose? Did you tell her?" "Of course. I felt too guilty. I told her before the recital and gave them to her. She wasn't mad," Olivia answered. "Are you mad at me?" "Well, I am just a little because you didn't tell the truth, but I forgive you because I understand." "Thanks so much, Mady. I'm really sorry," Olivia said as she climbed in her sleeping bag.

Madelyn cut out the light and slipped in hers too. "We have school tomorrow, you know. We'd better go to sleep if we have to get up at 6:30 in the morning!"

"Sure thing. Goodnight, Mady. See you in the morning." "Goodnight," Madelyn replied. "Oh, and Olivia? Remember: Nobody's perfect."

Community Grieves Loss of 8 Year Old North Carolina Dancer

by Carol Mallett Rifkin

Reprinted from the Asheville Citizen Times

ASHEVILLE, North Carolina – Last year, 8-year-old Claire Atkins, of Spruce Pine, kicked up her heels on stage at the annual Mountain Dance and Folk Festival.

This year, this historic festival was dedicated to her memory.

The bright young dancer died July 18, 2008 after a fall from a tree. A member of the Cole Mountain Cloggers, she leaves behind a grieving family and saddened mountain music community.

Claire came from a dancing family. Her parents, Jeff and Angela Atkins, started and coach the Cole Mountain Cloggers. One of four daughters born to the couple, three sisters who also dance with Cole Mountain survive her: Abigail, 12; Caroline, 6; and Sarah, 3. Their uncle, Jay Atkins, coaches Woodfin Elementary's Elk Mountain Cloggers.

"In the community of the Shindig and Mountain Dance and Folk Festival, there are families who keep the traditions," said musician Laura Boosinger. "Jeff and Angela Atkins have such a family. Claire was a very petite, fine-boned child. It was fun to see her go out and elatedly perform a crowd-pleasing dance move.

"She was a lovely, loving child who always gave a hug to everyone she knew," Boosinger added.

"Claire was always the one who did a cartwheel in the 'rise and shine,'" said family friend Vickie Hensley-King, of Fairview, referring to a clogging move usually known as the "Kings Highway."

"She was so full of life and energy."

Jeff Atkins serves on Asheville's all-volunteer Folk Heritage Committee, producing the Mountain Dance and Folk Festival and Shindig on the Green. He is director of the Shindig. The tragedy has united the mountain music community. Following his daughter's death, the Folk Heritage Committee announced that this year's 81st Mountain Dance and Folk Festival, held July 31-Aug. 3 at Diana Wortham Theatre in Pack Place, would be formally dedicated to the young performer's memory.

"We are people of faith, and we see God's hand in getting us to where he wanted us to be," said Jeff Atkins.

After his daughter fell from a tree and suffered a severe injury to her arm, the Atkinses traveled to Brenner's Children Hospital in Winston-Salem for her to have surgery. A congenital vascular defect, unknown to them and unrelated to the fall, caused bleeding to the brain.

"It could have happened anytime, anywhere," said Jeff Atkins.

"When we found out that she couldn't be saved, we wanted to help other children. Five different children had surgery to receive organs from Claire."

Community remembers

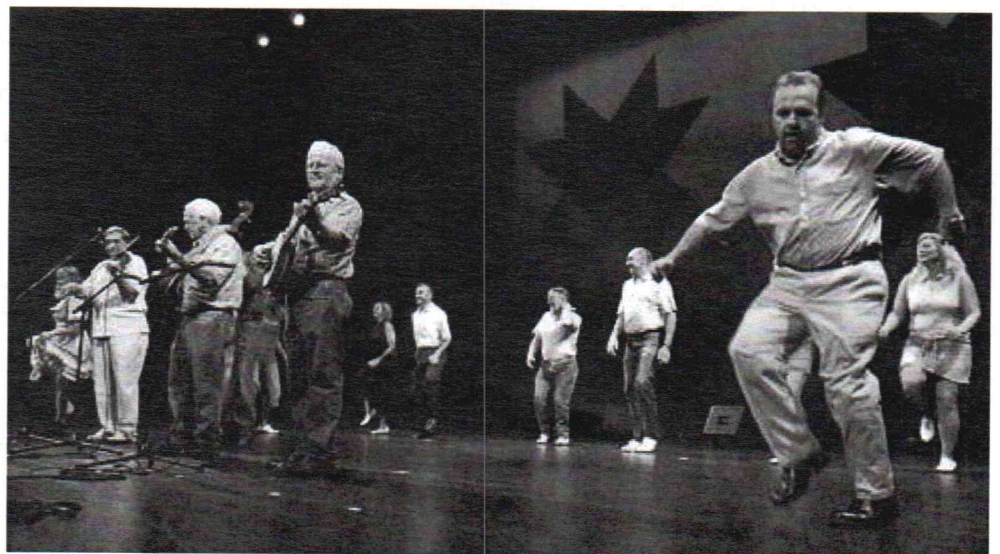

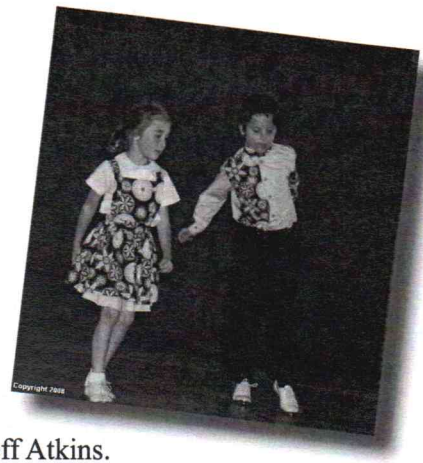

Jeff Atkins described his daughter as a loving, energetic child who loved reading, school, the fiddle, her family, her church family at Central Baptist Church and clogging with the Cole Mountain Cloggers.

A hush fell over Martin Luther King Jr. Park on Saturday night as the usually joyous Shindig on the Green paused for a moment of silence. Boosinger took the stage and led friends, family and the audience in a special version of "Will the Circle Be Unbroken" in memory of 8-year-old Claire.

A celebration of Claire's life was held at the Greenlee Primary School auditorium in Spruce Pine. In honor of Claire, the family requests donations be made in her memory to Carolina Donor Services at 1551 Westbrook Plaza Drive, Suite 200, Winston-Salem, NC 27103.

U.S. Clogger Teaches in Ireland Julie Black, director of the Mississippi Magic Cloggers, performed at the Ulster American Folk Park in Omagh, County Tyrone, Ireland as part of their 2008 Easter Celebration.

Julie demonstrated traditional drag/slide clogging in the 19th century-style Pennsylvania Log Barn, to the accompaniment of musicians Dick and Sabine Glasgow. She also taught steps to any willing participant. Despite sleeting weather, a great time was had.

Our sympathies are extended to Cloggers Aron and Noelle Hodge of the Yellow Rose Cloggers of Houston, Texas on the loss of their baby this past month. The couple had been expecting their first child. Aron has been a long time member of the Yellow Rose Cloggers and he and his parents, Ron and Rita, have been long-standing volunteers for clogging efforts in Texas and around the country.

Wesley Quinn, (second from right) from Greenville, SC, is enjoying success as a member of V Factory, an up and coming pop vocal group that mixes hip moves with tight harmonies. Wesley began performing at the age of six and spent seven years clogging with the Upstate Carolina Dance Center. After attending his younger sister's dance recital, "I told my parents, I really want to do that," he says. Wesley embarked on 11 years of intense technical dance training followed by voice lessons.

Wesley, who admits he loves to be the center of attention, is excited about being in V Factory and invites cloggers to check out the group's music at

Diamonds on the Soles of Her Shoes

Notes to the Dancers:

This is a story of a musical journey of sorts for me. It begins with a scene along the wharf in Miami where the air is filled with the strains of a live Steel Drum Band. And I am standing watching an old man dance in his own way to the music of the steel drums. His feet never left the pavement; his heels kept beat with the music of the steel drums. He didn't really move much, but he was enjoying the music and feeling it from his heels to his head. This dance begins and ends with that scene in mind and a step I have called the "Old Man's Heels".

The dance moves on to another scene. In November, 1986, Paul Simon appeared on Saturday Night Live with a South African group called Ladysmith Black Mambazo. Earlier in the year, they had collaborated on the album "Graceland". The performance that night in November on SNL was a song from the "Graceland" album; it was called "Diamonds on the Soles of Her Shoes." Having tuned in to SNL that night unaware of the scheduled performance to come, this was a great surprise and a performance whose imagery, lyrics, dance and music would stay with me thru the intervening years. I have often wanted to dance to "Diamonds..." since that time. Finally, with a little inspiration and a few ideas, the time has come.

I have tried to choreograph a dance that my favorite people... Beginning Cloggers... could enjoy even before you acquire the wealth of steps and skill that is sure to come. I included a step in this dance that I call the "Mambazo"... named after the group that performed with Paul Simon. The step was derived from watching replays (over and over again) of the SNL video of their performance in 1986. I only adapted it slightly for clogging. The point in the dance where we do the "Mambazo" is exactly the same point in the song where Ladysmith Black Mambazo did the same step. I use a lot of earthy steps in this dance – the "Mambazo", "Old Man's Heels", "Zulu Stamp", "Bazo Swing" and "Bongos" – as I tried to capture a clogging version of the African styling in various places of the dance. Another step I called "Algia Mae Touches" comes from a step that Algia Mae Hinton, an African-American from the Piedmont region of North Carolina, used in her tap and buck dancing. She is one of the Appalachian dancers featured in the DVD called "Talking Feet." She would do some intricate, yet understated, movement and then follow it with a portion of this step which is a very dainty touch of the toe on her unweighted foot before doing a brush and going on to something else... in this step she reminds me of someone who is being very careful to protect a valuable resource on the soles of her shoes... her dancing showed that she truly has diamonds on the soles of her shoes. I use her understated step juxtaposed against the subsequent ostentatious Strut Steps to accentuate the polarities of this dance: the New Yorker (by way of New Jersey) Paul Simon & Joseph Shabalala from Ladysmith, South Africa, the Pop lyrics and the traditional isicathamiya harmonies of the Zulu people, steps whose roots lie in the clogging tradition and steps whose roots lie in the Zulu dance tradition.

I am sure that Paul Simon did not have clogging or taps in mind when he constructed his song around the phrase "diamonds on the soles of her shoes". But those of us who clog know that our "diamonds" are truly on the soles of our shoes. Have a great time with your "diamonds" as you learn clogging.
