The Social Network

There is a new movie about about the beginning of the social networking website Facebook. The explosion of this phenomemon has lessons for us as members of our own social network in the clogging world.

Just like Facebook, we all came into the dance world with our own set of friends and contacts and the more we imersed ourselves into the activity, the more we encounter other dance groups and instructors and dancers.

Just like Facebook, we can choose who we include in our list of friends and we can share with those friends our time, our friendship and our resources. We cannot, however, dictate the connections that those we call friends choose to include in theirs, and we should not use the networks we are a part of be used to carry out agendas that divide us or others.

So many times, I see people using social networks as ways to vent personal agendas or grandstand or simply toot their own horn incensantly. While it may be frustrating to hold your toungue (or hold back from posting a response) you should heed the advice of Granny and not say anything at all.

As much as you may roll your eyes at the spectacle some people create for themselves, there is very little positive that comes from putting your opinion into the mix and most people can see through such things without you needing to weight in on it.

Focus your attention on the positives ways you can support the friends in your personal circle and think about the impact that what you say in the social networks ripple well past your own little world.

Keep in mind... You can't unring a bell. Focus on dance and the people who are part of it for you and let your social network and your friend's social networks be a meaningful and positive community. Happy clogging! Jeff Driggs

Gaga for the Lady

Internationally Renowned and Respected Clogging Workshop Instructor Naomi Pyle Continues to be in Demand After Nearly Thirty Years of Teaching

by Jeff Driggs, Editor

Naomi Pyle is used to getting attention. One of a handful of female national instructors in a circuit often thought to be traditionally dominated by male instructors, Naomi has made a name for herself as a deft choreographer, an entertaining instructor and a mentor to many.

Her laugh is infectious. Her choreography is unmistakable. Her persona is bigger than life. She jokingly refers to herself as a clogging “cougar” for her marriage to her younger husband David, but also is a devoted and doting Grandmother to her daughter Kelly’s three children.

I first met Naomi when she was just beginning to teach clogging in her native Indiana. Her group, the Columbus Clogging Company was a group of ladies of all ages who shared Naomi’s zeal and spiritedness. Her ability to connect with people made her a magnet for people who looked to clogging as both recreation and entertainment.

Naomi was one of the first cloggers from the states to teach in Europe and has traveled extensively in her workshop travels there, having been to Austria, Germany, France, Holland and Denmark.

Clogging isn’t the only thing that keeps Naomi busy. She and her husband David own flower shops in Columbus and Seymour, Indiana. Before beginning her own business, she hosted a local television program and -- all the while -- taught both clogging and country western line dancing.

After experiencing the pain of a close family member’s journey with addiction and recovery, Naomi and David started Pyle High Hopes, an organization dedicated to prevention and treatment assistance for people with substance abuse dependency issues. The Pyles don’t just support the program with their fund raising and advocacy, they become personally involved in their benefactors recovery and have helped many people in their area through the effort.

The acting bug has hit Naomi of late. In addition to her hilarious roles in the Smoky Mountain Encore show in March and her co-direction of the C.L.O.G. National Convention show in Nashville, Tennessee over Thanksgiving, Naomi recently took a lead role in a local theatre production of “Dearly Departed,” a comedy about a Southern Family whose patriarch dies at the breakfast table and sends the family into mayhem as they arrange for the funeral of their dearly departed. Naomi played the role of Mama Raynelle, the wife of character Bud Turpin, who died at the breakfast table.

I sat down with Naomi at her home in Indiana to talk about her journey in clogging so far and to find out what’s next for her.

DTT: How did you get started clogging?

Naomi Pyle: My niece Rita called me one day and ask if I wanted to take clogging lessons with her, and I said "What's clogging?" She said it's a form of dance and I immediately said "Sure," because I love to dance. One lesson into it I was hooked and I've been hooked for twenty-seven years. I started with lessons and from there joined a club and danced with them for about a year and a half and then I started my own classes, then formed my own club "The Columbus Clogging Company," which I have had for about 23 years now.

DTT: Tell us about your club, because I have had the pleasure of traveling with them and they are a truly unique and fun bunch.

Naomi: We have dancers from age eight to seventy, but most are middle-aged women who love to dance and have a good time! They're fun!

DTT: How did you segue from teaching and running a group regionally to teaching on the workshop circuit?

Naomi: Well, actually, Jeff, you had a lot to do with that. You were an officer of the N.C.H.C. (the National Clogging and Hoedown Council, which is now a division of CLOG, the Clogging Leaders Organization) in the 1980's and you hosted an N.C.H.C. workshop in Indianapolis and asked me to be a local coordinator to help you. I might add it was a very successful event and drew over 700 people. And here I was sweating bullets because you had given me two teaching spots. I made all of my group go to my classes so I would be sure to have a good turnout in my rooms! From that first experience I got three major workshop bookings, and those lead to more bookings and I found myself teaching on the national circuit.

DTT: I am honored I could play a small part in that for you.

Naomi: You played a big part, a very big part. At the fun dance at that event, we had hula hoops and just had a good time with the crowd and Peg McLerran of the Pride and Joy Cloggers of Indiana, who held an annual workshop, saw me and booked me that very weekend, along with other events. I had been doing several local and regional events and donating my teaching time and once I had gotten a taste of it I really enjoyed it. DTT: You have certainly expanded beyond the local and regional workshops at this point. What are some of the highlights and the places you have had the opportunity to spread the gospel of clogging in your career?

Naomi: "Spread the gospel of clogging," I love that! I have had the great honor of teaching in Europe several times. Europe had an organization of square and round dancers that in 1989 started to include cloggers and I happened to be in the right place at the right time. Stevens Worldwide (clogging vendors and makers of the Stevens Stomper tap) had been asked for a recommendation for an instructor with the understanding that there could be some language barriers. I had just done a workshop for the Stevens and they told the Europeans that I had a big personality and that they didn't think language would be a problem, so I was asked to come and teach and I did the workshop for twelve years in a row. I've been able to travel to Hawaii and Mexico and so many other places. Who would have thought that clogging could give you so many opportunities and friends all over the world?

DTT: Is there a fun traveling experience that comes to mind?

Naomi: Oh, there are a million... it would take a novel (laughter). I remember taking my team to dance at a festival in Austria and then we met up with you while you were doing workshops in Europe and we traveled on as a group and had so much fun. Clogging took me to Hawaii and it was my first time back in more than thirty years and was such a great experience. There are just so many great memories!

DTT: You have been very much in demand as a workshop instructor for many years and are one of only a handful of female instructors who are booked to that degree. How is it different for a woman in the workshop world when so often you are booked with male instructors teaching mostly to a female audience?

Naomi: It is very different, and I understand why. First of all, and I don't want to get on a soapbox, but I think women do have to work much harder to get equal recognition and it is much more difficult to break into the circuit. Eighty percent or more of the workshop goers are female and many say they like to take classes from male instructors. I get it. I have been very lucky to have gained a following and I appreciate that.

DTT: One of many things I admire about you as an instructor, and it is a hallmark of most of the great instructors that I know, is that you mentor people. How important is that to you and what advice would you give to instructors who aspire to someday do what you do?

Naomi: I do mentor people and I think it is important because Mawmaw here is gonna retire someday! People are hungry for opportunities to teach and I do a workshop each year and like to give new people a chance to teach. If I could give some advice to someone trying to make a name for themselves on the clogging circuit, it would be "Don't stop trying. Keep at it" I often think back to a statement my Dad made that "If your grass is greener, people will notice." So, put yourself out there and do free workshops and attend workshops and promote yourself, but don't be pushy about it. If you are writing quality choreography and you are having fun on that stage, the dancers will have fun on that floor, and that is what it is all about.

DTT: Clogging as a dance form has grown and expanded so much in the time that we have been in it. The competition clogging world has certainly changed the clogging styles dramatically. What do you think of the path that modern clogging is taking and where do you see clogging going in the future?

Naomi: I love that. I love that clogging is constantly growing and changing. When you look at clogging today and groups like "ALL THAT" and others and the exposure that clogging has gotten in the media in recent times, I don't think that fifteen years ago we could have gotten this kind of attention. In my lifetime I've seen clogging influenced by Irish dance and Canadian dance and now with hip hop and jazz and so many other flavors and I like that. I don't want to see clogging get stagnant, and even for us "old farts" it is kind of nice to get to try new things.

DTT: In the last few years, you have actually gotten involved in the clogging competition world. Has that changed your perspective on the dance at all?

Naomi: Absolutely. I was involved in the clogging competition world about fifteen years ago and then got involved again in the last few years when I started hosting a competition. I look at groups in competition today like Final Destination of California, Sole Power and Taps in Motion of Kentucky and other groups... my goodness. The level of clogging that these kids are doing today is just unbelievable. I think it has also changed the way in which we look at clogging as a whole. My beginner classes are much different than they were when I was teaching twenty years ago. The same is true with my intermediate classes. A dance that I teach today as an intermediate routine would have been considered advanced just a few years ago. I think the young people drive much of it and I am so amazed at the flavor and vitality they bring to clogging today. I just love it.

DTT: You seem to be a magnet for young people at clogging events. How does that make you feel when you see so many young people in your classes at workshops who appreciate what you do?

Naomi: I love that. I think age is irrelevant, which is apparent in that my husband is much younger than me. I don't think age matters. If you are having a good time and they are having a good time, that is all that matters. I enjoy seeing young people in my classes. I like hanging out with young people. It keeps me young. It keeps my brain engaged. It keeps me excited about clogging. It inspires me too. Isn't it excited when you see a young dancer or a new dancer get excited about the same things that we do in clogging? To know that they will carry it on is just great.

DTT: What's next for you? Where do you see yourself going from this point forward in clogging?
Naomi: I don't know. I really don't. I take it as it comes. I know you and I have both have chosen to slow down a lot from teaching workshops, and I have gotten into some ballroom dancing lately. I really enjoy that because I am not teaching it and it is a big stress reducer for me. As for clogging, I think I am going to enjoy the ride and hang on for as long as my feet and legs let me and enjoy the friends I have made. I've made so many wonderful friends through clogging down through the years and across the way and I hope I can just continued to ride this ride for as long as it will take me.

DTT: Well, I know I can speak for many, many cloggers around the world who hope you will continue to entertain and teach us for many years to come.

Naomi: It has been a great ride, and I am not ready for it to be over yet. I am not ready to hang up my clogging shoes and just sit back and watch everyone else clog. I still want to be involved. I want to be on the dance floor and teaching. And I hope that if I never lose that desire and drive, and if I do I hope that someone will tell me I need to stop. I want to continue and be active and to be a part because it is fun for me and means so much to me.

DTT: Thanks so much for taking the time to talk with the readers of the Double Toe Times and I hope that in another ten years we can sit down and talk again about where clogging has been and is going.

Naomi: I do have to say that I cannot let this opportunity pass to let you know how much you have helped me along the way. Not only have you been a good friend to me, but you have inspired me so much.

DTT: Thanks so much and thank you for all you do for clogging!

Western New York Cloggers Association Delivers Another Record Breaking Workshop

by Elaine Brock
Western New York Cloggers Association

Combine absolutely beautiful weather and great record breaking attendance, and you have our spectacular Nickel City Festival for 2010. The Holiday Inn Resort & Conference Center in Grand Island, NY, overlooking the mighty Niagara River, hosted the 24th annual Western New York Clogging Festival from April 15 through April 17, 2010. The festival's theme this year was "Survivor 2010," complete with weeklong activities which kept everyone very busy!! Visitors arrived from 24 states, plus our many good friends from Canada, in anticipation of another fun-filled Nickel City weekend. All total, 75 hours of workshops were offered along with 15 hours of fun dances which added up to a grand total of 2 ½ days of great fun!

The Western New York Cloggers Association gave a great big welcome to these featured national instructors; Scotty Bilz, Dieter Brown, Jeff Driggs, Shane Gruber, Joel Harrison, Naomi Pyle, Missy Shinoski, Chip Summey, Judy Waymouth, and Barry Welch. Lending their talents to this impressive group were guest and our local instructors; Herb Brock, Shirley Brown, Aliccia Clark, Hanna Dash, Sonya Gelster, Nick Gunner, Fonda Hill, Adam Mowry, Heather Murphy, Andrew Perry, Jason Pflugh, Sharon Pine & Sara Barker, Trish Profic, Cheri Truax, Lynda Vaadi, Kim White, and Colleen Zurbrigg. What a great selection of top notch instructors to choose from - Nickel City strives to offer everyone a wide variety of clogging style choices, from the very basic for "never been clogging before" to high advanced, with everything else in between plus many interesting seminars!

Activities began Thursday evening with the Ballroom packed with cloggers eager to begin their clogging weekend. Joel, Naomi, and Jeff had over 200 participants for a fun elimination dance, and Joel, Missie, along with a friend, ran the largest Cotton Eye Joe dance we ever saw which took up the whole Ballroom. Joel absolutely loved it here at Nickel City - - "the people are phenomenal and are having a blast." Dieter Brown brought back one of our very favorite oldies, "Fishing in the Dark," and Shane Gruber, complete with survivor headband, and tiki pole, (keeping in style with the theme) led a huge bunny hop around the main ballroom. This was Dieter Brown's first time at Nickel City and also his first time in New York State! He has heard so many good things about the festival and really loved it here. Chip Summey commented, "I'm so glad to be back - it is an awesome festival - - I love the people." Workshops began bright and early Friday morning and what a choice - - five halls covering a wide variety of music, a large variety of instructors, plus some very interesting seminars on both Friday and Saturday. Vendors were already set up since Thursday evening and were continually busy with clogging customers. Friday evening cloggers had their choice of the Ballroom for a fun dance highlighting our national instructors or the Settlement Hall staffed with our local and guest instructors for request dancing. Our exclusive Pool Party for cloggers and families ended a very busy day. The fun never stopped!

Saturday morning began with the bustling of busy cloggers (674 dancers registered for the festival), hurrying to one of the six halls to take an interesting routine or see their favorite instructor. Scavenger Puzzle teams were seen scurrying around, busy finding clues, or working on their tribal flags, in hopes of being the contests' big winners! The 'Beginner from Scratch Hall' was again a big hit with first time beginner cloggers! Judy Waymouth, who brought over 70 cloggers, plus their families, loved being here and her entire group always looks forward to attending. Scotty Bilz, another favorite, loved watching the level of dancers, seeing how much higher it was this weekend, and seeing the dancers with so much enthusiasm! There is always something to do here at Nickel City - - make sure to take time to visit all our local scenic sights including Niagara Falls - - shop 'til you drop at all our malls - - try your luck at one of our many casinos - - and don't forget to take a stroll down memory lane and visit the historic and photo displays of Nickel City Festivals of the past, which is set up annually by our historian, Bonnie Linhardt. As the Saturday evening workshops concluded, it was on to a delicious Luau buffet where diners were greeted with grass skirted damsels gracing us with tropical leis. Throughout the weekend anyone feeling very lucky could take their choice of participating in the 50/50 daily drawings or take chances on the many wine or clogging basket raffles.

As the Saturday workshops and the buffet concluded for the evening, it was time to head to the Ballroom for a great evening of entertainment. The large audience was entertained with great exhibitions from Judy's School of Dance, the Northern Jewels, The Combination Cloggers, Kickin' Rhythm Cloggers, Backwoods Cloggers, Shane Gang Warriors, Kickin' Rhythm Kids, Stompin' Em Cloggers, the A J Cloggers, and the Tensation Cloggers. During the evening special recognition was given to Melissa Gretzler, Rebecca Gunner, and Kaitlyn Cichocki, all from Tensation Cloggers, for receiving honors as the Western New York Cloggers Association scholarship recipients this year. Congratulations to these exceptional individuals and good luck with their future education! A special moment for the Nickel City Festival was the presentation Saturday evening of the Western New York Cloggers Association Hall of Fame Award, which purpose is to recognize an individual who has contributed significantly to the perpetuation of clogging in the Western New York region. This year we were proud to honor Herb Brock. He has made many contributions of his time and talent to Nickel City, his home team, and clogging in general. Congratulations to this outstanding and very deserving individual! Finally, awards were handed out for the winners of the Survivor Theme puzzle and the flag/banner contests, with Judy's School of Dance and the Shane Gang Cloggers taking some of the top honors. Clogging fun continued well into the evening with more a sense of community to everyone, especially the dancers.” This marks the 11th year for Shane Gruber, who gave Nickel City a five star rating from the Shane Gang Cloggers, and he highly recommends this workshop. Nickel City is very special to him and he enjoys being a part of it. His message to the clogging community is “If people want to learn how to put on a successful workshop, come check this place out. Credit is given to the volunteers because they really put on a smooth show here, from the people who do the flooring, the sound, hospitality, registration, etc. - - everything runs very smoothly. I’m coming here whether it’s an invite to teach or just to come here.” We all missed seeing Sallie James this weekend. She has been with us since almost the beginning and we missed seeing her smiling face, attending her teaches, plus her wonderful sense of humor! Hurry back, Sallie!

Many, many very special thanks go out to Ken and Linda Haley, Hanna Dash, and all their hard-working committee people, volunteers, and all the participants who did a fantastic job coordinating this year’s festival. The event would not be a success without their service and dedication. A big thanks to all who attended our supported our Nickel City Festival. Next year’s Nickel City Festival will be our celebration of 25 glorious years of our workshops. Be sure to mark your calendars for April 14, 15, & 16, 2011, and join us for another very exciting weekend. We’ll be looking for you!!

I GOTTA FEELING

Black Eyed Peas

By Lois Elling 3/10

NOTES:

- 1) To dance "flash mob" style, start with just one or two dancers for the first time through the chorus, then add several more for the second, more for the third, etc. By the start of the clogging sections, all should be dancing.
  - 2) To see the non-clogging movements, search YouTube.com for "I Gotta Feeling Black Eyed Peas Oprah."
  - 3) The tempo is on the fast side (130 bpm), so some may want to slow it down.

A Gift for You for Your Students

The Double Toe Times is proud to help you recognize the hard work of your clogging students to complete a series of classes by giving you a supply of "clogging diplomas" to hand out at your graduation night. The diplomas are on glossy paper stock with a colorful diploma design that features a clog dancer, a place for you to sign. Just drop us an email or letter, fax or letter to let us know how many diplomas you will need.
