Music Evolution

We have come a long, long way from the collection of 45 RPM records to the most current digital music playback devices.

The Double Toe Times (and some of our Facebook fans) share their favorite software programs to play music, adjust tempos and edit songs.

Clogging Group Trips

Lee Froehle has been coordinating clogging trips and tours for more than a decade and has taken her own groups to Europe, Disney and around the U.S. She has also organized Clogging Expos for over 1,000 people in Washington, DC, plus Hawaii, Ireland, Scotland and more. Whether you are a small group wanting a fun trip, a cruise for a few families or a large studio wanting a once-in-a-lifetime adventure, Lee can arrange performances and tours just for you!

Give a Little

Christmas is right around the corner. For many it is the most wonderful time of the year, filled with friends and family and free days to play with your new toys for all ages. For others it can be a hectic, emotional or even lonely time.

Being mindful of the true meaning of Christmas can help you make this season more personal and special.

It's all about giving. Of course, the reason for Christmas is to honor the birth of Jesus and his gift to the world.

Our demonstration of Christmas is in the gifts we give to each other.

So take this season to focus on giving.

Give the gift of togetherness.

Clogging brings people together and makes bonds that stretch far beyond the dance floor. Just taking a night to play some Christmas games, play music and dance favorites, have some cookies and light refreshments and laugh can be a great evening for you and your dancers and may be the only real gathering they have this season.

Give the gift of your time.

Take a handful of your dancers and either perform or visit a nursing home, children's home or family shelter. The visit will mean the world to them and will mean a great deal to you as well.

Give the benefit of the doubt.

Take a second look at that person who hurt your feelings and reach out to them with nothing more than best wishes for the Holidays. Even if you can't fix the situation, you will feel a sense of closure about it and move forward knowing you made peace with yourself about it.

Give someone the gift of a magical Christmas.

We learn so much about our dancers. As someone who has given to charities and drives, I also know that there are people around me who are in great need of help but would never seek it out. An anonymous grocery gift card placed in a shoe bag or a secret "Santa" gift can truly make someone's Christmas and will give you a sense of satisfaction that will last long after the season. As my favorite author Charles Dickens said "No one is useless in this world who lightens the burdens of another."

Give yourself the gift of relaxation.

Make sure that you don't get so wrapped up in feeling responsible for your class members or team mates that you don't give yourself the important time you need for yourself and your family, and also some time to just relax and enjoy yourself.

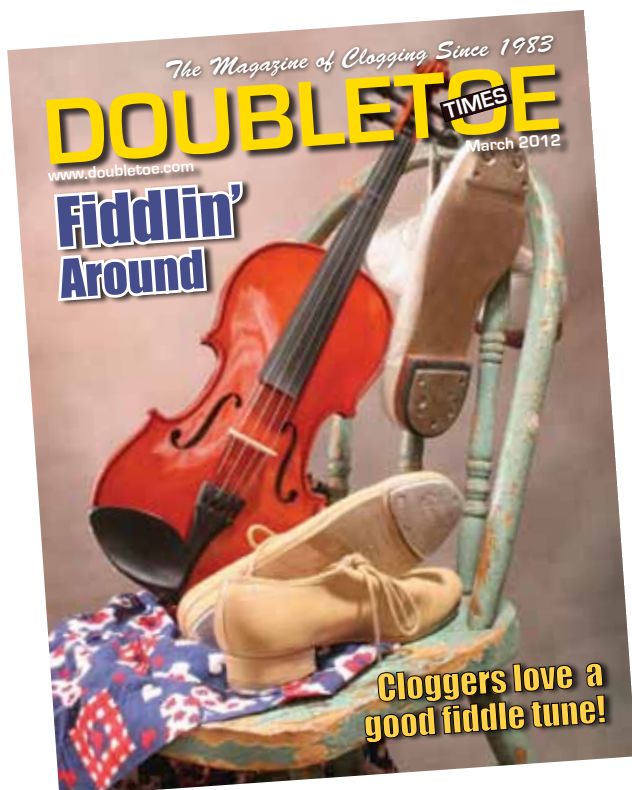

Happy clogging and Happy Holidays! Jeff Driggs

A Step in the Right Direction

by Ken Burdett, Winnepeg, Manitoba, Canada

I watched some cloggers in Garden City Center.

Right then and there I decided to enter.

The reason I joined was the music was quite upbeat, but soon I found I had two left feet.

I really thought I was in the groove,
when I mastered the first basic move.

I soon found I needed a little more pep,
as the next move was a double-toe step.

The cross over vine was the hardest to do.

I thought my right foot was in my left toe.

But the instructor would not relent,
"Now let's do the drag-slide with the knees well bent."
and when I thought my legs could take no more pain, they would holler out "Let's do it again."

Something more than baby had a hold of me, when I danced "Cripple Creek" with a twisted knee.
With reckless abandon I attacked "Cajun Moon."
When I master that it will be a frosty Friday in June.

Everyone asks why I walk this way.

I say "Hambone," which I learned one rainy night in May.

For exercise it beats a bicycle or trying to jog.

I sure am glad I decided to clog.

Up To Speed With Technology

Clogging Instructors Use the Latest Programs to Adjust Music Tempos

The ability to adjust music tempos is vitally important to a clogging instructor or director to ensure that dancers learn steps and sequences and practice them at a variety of speeds.

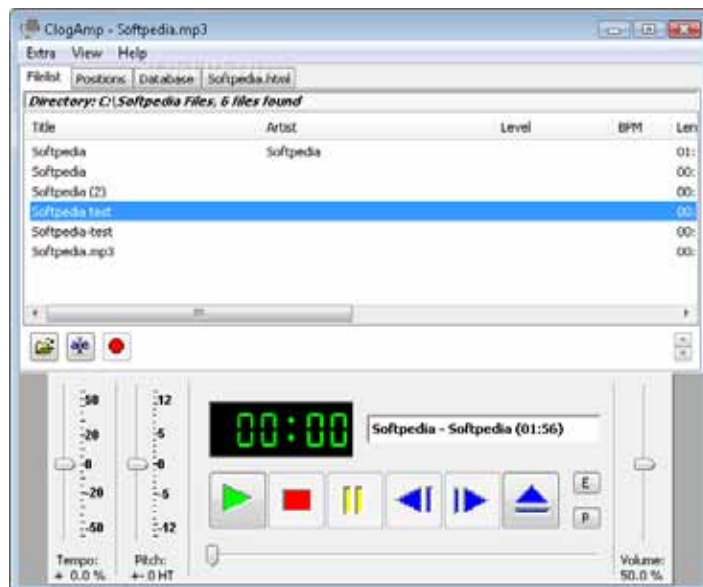

From the early days when Hilton and variable speed turntables were the standard, to the introduction of the cassette, then the CD, the laptop, the guitar tuner/player, and now the iPad or digital player, we have come a long way! Who would have thought that a teacher could bring their entire music collection with them on a phone or handheld tablet? For those who used to lug heavy record cases or pencils to twirl-rewind their cassettes, the technology is a refreshing change.

Listed here are some of the popular softwares used by dance instructors on the desktops, laptops and portable devices. Clogging instructors also weigh in at the end of the article with their recommendations.

Popular Laptop Softwares

ClogAmp

ClogAmp is a music player particularly tailored to the need of clogging instructors. It is widely used throughout Germany and is well known for its easy installation, ease-of-use and speed. The software was developed by clogger Martin Rohrbach and has been supported by many internationally known instructors. One feature that is especially liked by those who use a laptop is the ability to change tempos and volume by pressing keys on the laptop without the use of the mouse. This is very helpful when wanting to make quick tempo or volume changes.

Winamp

Winamp is a media player for Windows-based PCs and Android devices. It is proprietary freeware/shareware, multi-format program, extensible with plug-ins and skins, and is noted for its graphical sound visualization, playlist, and media library features.

Winamp supports music playback using MP3, MIDI, MOD, WAV, WMA and other popular formats. At installation, Winamp scans the user's system for media files to add to the Media Library database.

Winamp has extendable support for portable media players and Mass Storage Compliant devices, Microsoft PlaysForSure and ActiveSync, and syncs unprotected music to the iPods and iPads.

PCDJ Red

PCDJ Red Mobile 2 for Windows or MAC is DJ software designed for DJ's, instructors and Entertainers. Red Mobile 2.0 boasts a powerful library that allows you to Import, mix, and search all of your MP3, OGG, WMA, FLAC, WAV files, MP3+G unprotected iTunes files quickly and easily. Complete with features such as fully automated auto-mix, one-click beat sync, a mix-now button for quick cross-fade and play, all packaged in a very easy-to-use interface; you have the perfect DJ solution to take on any gig in any environment. Less screen clutter and just the right feature set to make your job as easy as possible.

The Double Toe Times took to its FaceBook fan page to ask users which program they use for playing digital music. Here are a few of their posts.

Blake B.: The amazing slow downer (ASD) on the Apple App Store.

Samantha W.: I also use Amazing Slow Downer (ASD) on my iPod Touch & iPhone. It works extremely well, the only problem is that I can't make a copy of the slowed down music to give to my students.

Ryan R.: If you download the PC version you can actually slow down the music and save it as a different file. We use both the mobile app version and PC version for slowing & saving. All of our instructors have ASD on their phones or iPads and we use it all the time.

Kristy Z.: I use "Slow Down Music Player" and "Tempo Slow" on my Iphone.

Sarah G.: I use Audio Speed Changer (ASC) on my android phone. It's available in the Google Play store. It is cheap, easy to use, and works well. You can adjust the speed and pitch independently of one another.

Adam K.: DJay on the iPad (and now Amazing Slow Downer on the iPhone thanks to above comments). I run all our practices and shows through DJay, which links to iTunes and runs your playlists. If you have music that is DRM-protected (earlier buys most likely), it won't play it. And to trim music I use Audacity on the Mac or PC. It makes perfect cuts and allows you to add tons of other elements if you wish – a free program via sourceforge.net.

Melissa P.: I use DJay on my iPad as well to teach all of my classes, for our shows and at workshops I teach at. We also use Audacity to cut and edit music on our Mac. Both are super programs and I've never had any trouble with either one.

Brandon N.: I used Tempo Slow. It's a free app for apple products and it speeds up/slows down the entire track.

Paula F.: I use Pocket Music Remixer on my iPad and iPhone, though it has been crashing occasionally since the iOS update. For edits I use Audacity

Geoff S.: Sound pitch - iTunes app - lets you slow down and export. I also use Music Trainer - another iTunes app Jennifer D.: I use Winamp with Pacemaker. Allows to change tempo without screwing up how the vocals sound. When I decide the final tempo of the song to dance, I edit the file with Audacity. All free programs and easy to use :)

Amy G.: I use clogamp and audacity both for pc -love them both - easy to use and free! you can save the songs slowed down for students etc. clogamp remembers the last speed played also - nice for class.

Mark H.: I use vDjT on my android phone. It is a virtual turntable that controls speed and pitch and allows you to cue and loop any part of the song. It's great for working on difficult parts of a dance.

Making the Cut

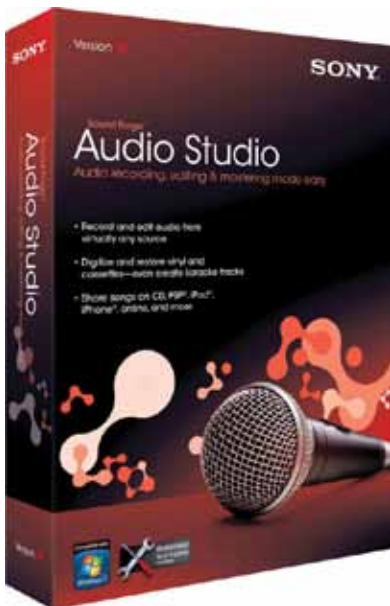

Find out which music-editing software is right for you

By Jacqui Gal

When it comes to choosing songs for exhibition or competition numbers, think of a piece of recorded music as a starting point rather than a finished product. Thanks to music-editing technology, different songs can be blended together, tempos changed, nasty words expunged and new sounds mixed in. This is helpful for creating unique music and customized song lengths. But without the proper editing know-how, a missed beat or clunky transition can ruin it all by drawing attention away from your dancers.

In order to avoid this, studios may choose to outsource their music editing to professionals. But making the effort to learn a few editing skills could save you and your studio precious dollars. With this in mind, we've prepared a guide to some of the most popular editing software packages for both PC and Mac users, based on recommendations from dance teachers who have been using them for years.

PC Users' Pick #1: Sony Sound Forge Audio Studio

words or music.”

- What it does: The program uses familiar Windows commands to cut, copy, paste and cross-fade audio, with a drag-and-drop system for easy use. Jennifer Heinrich, general manager of Kathy Blake Dance Studios in Amherst, New Hampshire, uses it to “blend, splice and mix music, remove unsavory words, slow down or speed up tracks and reverse

- User-friendliness: The software has “Show Me How” videos to help you quickly master the necessary skills to get started. “It’s so user-friendly,” says Jersey City Dance Academy operations manager Robert Brown, who has been using the software for 10 years. “My wife [academy director Jeannette Pilger-Brown] gets ideas for songs and then tries to fit them into certain time slots. For her, importing a song, making modifications and burning it onto a CD takes two minutes.” Users can download a manual at: www.sonycreativesoftware.com/download/manuals/audiostudio.

- Cost of software: $69.95

PC Users' Pick #2: Adobe Audition

- What it does: Adobe Audition can be used for both single-track editing (such as cutting music for time or content, or altering tempo) and multitrack editing (blending together two or more songs). Effects like reverb, chorus and channel swaps can also be added to give depth to the mix, explains dance teacher Brittany Bush, who started using the software 10 years ago. “It even has a vocal cut option to take out the vocal lines of most songs,” says Bush, a program director at Arizona Sunrays Dance in Phoenix. “I prefer to mix most of my music to create a unique experience, from adding heartbeats and rainstorms to layering orchestral scores from movies with spoken-word stories. I’ve also used the program to create exciting introductions at our community performances.” Bush says she has received high praise for her music selection and mixing over the years. "I never have to worry about the music not conveying the right message with the choreography—if anything, the endless musical opportunities have boosted the creativity in my routines," she says. "And of course, we never worry about anyone having the same music as we do."

- User-friendliness: "I've never had a problem finding my way around," says Bush. "You can zoom in easily to get precise cuts, and many of the functions can be implemented with single key touches." A user manual is available for download at: http://download.adobe.com/pub/adobe/magic/audition/win/2.02/audition_user_guide.pdf.

- Cost: $349

Mac Users' Pick #1: GarageBand

- What it does: GarageBand can be used to alter the length or tempo of a track and blend two or more pieces of music together. "You can record, edit and mix a song exactly as you want it," says Allison Thorton, co-owner and studio manager of The Dance Club in Orem, Utah. "We edit out bad words or phrases and do whatever we need to get the song we want to the desired length and feel."

- User-friendliness: Expect a small learning curve, says Thorton: "The 'help' feature was useful, but mostly it was trial and error. Now that I know what I'm doing, it is extremely easy to use."

I can edit a piece of music usually within 20 to 30 minutes." For a user manual, technical support and other information, visit: www.apple.com/support/garageband/.

- Cost: GarageBand comes free as part of iLife on all new Mac computers. The latest version of iLife (which has several other programs bundled in it) is $79.

Mac Users' Pick #2: Logic Studio

- What it does: "This is a full-blown digital recording studio for the Mac, with multitrack digital recording, sound effects, instrumental loops and a lot more," says Steven Wright-Mark, a music consultant to Darcy's Academy of Dance in Putnam Valley,

New York. "For example, for last year's recital we took numbers from Hollywood and Broadway musicals and updated them into a single, large production number. We wanted to start each number traditionally and then incorporate hip hop, but there was no existing music that fit the bill." The Logic Studio software allowed Wright-Mark to mix sections of the classic songs with newer music and some original sounds, like drum loops, rapping and vocals.

- User-friendliness: Logic is a complex application for pros. "It is user-friendly if you're familiar with the workings of a recording studio, but not if you have no recording experience," says Wright-Mark. The application re-creates a recording studio on your computer, including a mixing board with different tracks on which you can record live elements and add songs and other effects. "Once everything is recorded or added and set up on a track, then you have to mix the tracks to get the right balance between them," he says. "It can be a bit daunting to someone who has had no such experience." For a user manual, technical support and other information, visit: www.apple.com/support/logicpro/

by Tammy Real-McKeighan Fremont, Indiana Tribune

Maddi Taylor has danced her way to a dream fulfilled.

The 12-year-old Fremont, Indiana girl was part of an area clogging team that performed during the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade in New York City.

She attends Rennae's School of Dance in Elkhorn, Indiana, which has sent dancers to past parades. But this was Maddi's first time in the annual holiday tradition.

Maddi was among almost 50 girls, ages 7 to 18, who took part in this year's event as the Heartland Hoedowners cloggers. Younger girls rode on an Office Max float, surrounded by those 12 and older on foot.

The theme was "Elves Raising the Roof." Like the other girls, Maddi was decked out in a green jacket, black outfit and candy cane-striped tights.

"It was an amazing experience for her to be part of such a big production," said her mom, Shannon Stewart of Fremont. "It was her first time to ever be in New York and to be in that big of a show."

Stewart said the studio submitted a routine in March and later learned that the clogging group had been invited to take part in the parade. School owner Rennae Ticken made the announcement in June.

"When Rennae announced it at the recital, many of the girls started crying. They were so excited," Stewart said.

The girls practiced three times a week. On Saturdays, they'd practice for three hours — an hour of which they spent marching outside in chilly temperatures.

"They'd usually have practice from 5 to 8 or 6 to 9 (in the evening) so they were prepared if it was cold," Stewart said.

The weather was nice on Thanksgiving Day with temperatures in the 40s before the parade and then hitting 50 degrees. Stewart estimates the girls were in the parade for about three hours. They would walk, wave and then stop to perform a routine.

"There were times when they were running to keep up," Stewart said.

The parade ended at Herald Square in front of Macy's where the girls performed the routine submitted in March. Maddi is the daughter of Shannon Stewart and Robert Taylor, both of Fremont, who were at the parade.

"It was awesome," Stewart said.

Maddi's stepdad, Shawn Stewart, recorded the televised parade.

The girls enjoyed the event.

"It was the most fun, because I was with all my friends," she said. "My favorite part was when we danced, because we all had a lot of fun and we did really good."

Conventional Clogging

North Carolina Cloggers Perform at the Democratic National Convention

by Jill Kohnle Kirby

On Sunday, September 2, 2012, twelve members of the Sims Country Cloggers of Dudley Shoals, North Carolina participated in a kickoff celebration for the Democratic National Convention in Charlotte, NC at the Mint Museum. The party offered a "Taste of the Carolina's."

Around 1,000 people were in attendance, including delegates from several states. The delegates were from the five "home" states represented by President Obama and Vice President Biden which included Illinois, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Hawaii. The Cloggers were one of three groups selected from across the state to perform for the delegates. The Sims Country Cloggers were thanked and welcomed by Mayor of Charlotte Anthony Foxx. The cloggers also got to rehearse and perform with members of the West Charlotte High School marching band and Cheer Extreme stunt teams out of Kernersville, NC, who were the other groups selected to entertain at this event.

Members of the Sims Country Cloggers arrived at the venue at 11:00 am that morning, went through security and orientation, and then got to eat lunch and rehearses until about 4:00 pm. At 5:00 pm the party began. Throughout the night moments of "pop up" entertainment occurred, in which the Sims Country Cloggers participated in about 7 numbers. From clogging, to line dancing, to fun crowd songs like "Twist and Shout," the cloggers danced for many who had never seen clogging. Attendees thanked and applauded the dancers and asked questions after their performances.

The evening was wrapped up with a debriefing on the night's events. Each clogger was given a card that each of the attendees received that described the entertainment they saw at the event. All of the dancers also received a commemorative t-shirt and lanyard.

"It was an amazing opportunity that made me proud to be a clogger," said Sierra Jackson, a South Caldwell High School senior from Granite Falls, NC who has danced with the Sims Country

Cloggers for nine years.

"Delegates from Hawaii and Pennsylvania that had never seen clogging before would go to places throughout the party just to see us... an experience that not every clogger can say that they've had. The President may not have been there, but I'm sure he'll hear about us from the delegates from his state :)

To say that it was an honor is an understatement!”

15 year veteran clogger Angels Causby, of Dudley Shoals, NC was thankful for the opportunity to represent clogging at such a prestigious event.

“I had a wonderful and exciting experience,” Causby said.

“When performing, the energy that the delegates gave me made me want to give them the very best performance that I could. I feel that this was an experience that I and any of the other cloggers will forget as well. I think that this was a wonderful bonding experience for all of us. I also think that this experience not only made us grow as dancers but made us grow as people. We want to thank our director, Jill, for everything she has done for us.”

Taylor Matthews, of Hickory, NC, has clogged with the group since she was 3 years old and has been a part of the Sims Country Cloggers for the past five years. A sophomore at Appalachian State University, she was honored to be invited to clog at the Democratic National Convention.

“It was awesome to be able to represent cloggers across the nation at such a huge event,” Matthews said. “Delegates from states as far away as Hawaii came and were able to see the true North Carolina folk dance! The crowd interaction was great, as they seemed to be intrigued the entire time. Some even joined in on some of the dances. The DNC was a phenomenal experience that I’ll never forget!”

“Clogging at the DNC was such a surreal experience,” said Olivia Benson, a Patton High School senior from Morganton, NC who has clogged with SCC for 8 years. “Clogging has taken me many places but none of them have ever been so official, or stressful! I feel blessed that something that I love so much has taken me so many places and that people actually want to see me do it!”

“It was a huge honor to represent our state at the DNC,” said Lee Jackson an elementary school teaching assistant at Granite Falls Elementary School who has danced with the SCC family for eight years. “This gave our teenagers a chance to see “politics in action” and to do what they do best...clog!”

“The cloggers made an impact on the delegates that had never seen clogging,” Jackson said. “They were very receptive to our type of dance and asked many questions about clogging. Some even got a quick clogging lesson. The cloggers were happy to show them the basics of clogging.”

The Sims Country Cloggers are home based out of Granite Falls, North Carolina (Dudley Shoals). The studio offers beginner through advanced clogging and has seven competition teams. Directors A.J and Jill Kirby also host the Foothills Clogging Challenge and Hickory Hoedown every year and work to promote clogging all across the country. They strive to preserve clogging’s heritage and also instruct contemporary clogging.

For more information or to contact AJ and Jill, call 828-396-2052 or email simscountrycloggers@yahoo.com. You can also visit their website at www.simscountrycloggers.com or search for them on Facebook.

Can you name these clogging teams?

Pictured here are several clogging teams who have made their mark on the art of clogging through the years. How many do you recognize?

1. The Magnum Cloggers of NC featuring Burton & Becky Edwards. 2. The high kicking Green Grass Cloggers in the 1970's. 3. The Soco Gap Dancers of North Carolina who danced for the Royal family and President and Mrs. Roosevelt. 4. Leather N Lace Cloggers, who were featured in the Atlanta Olympic Games opening ceremonies. 5. The Tennessee Moonshine Cloggers who appeared on the TV show Hee Haw in the late 1970's and early 1980's. 6. The Barbary Coast Cloggers of California. 7. Bob Johnson (right) and his Flatland Cloggers of Virginia.

Okay.. I couldn't help myself.
I wrote a routine to this cultural phenomenon known as "Gangnam Style." The song, by Korean artist PSY, went viral in August with its catchy tune and signature dance moves. If you search on YouTube, you will find a video from the review of the routine during the Fontana Clogging Jamboree fun dance held in September.

"Gangnam Style" refers to a lifestyle associated with the Gangnam district of Seoul, Korea, where people are trendy, hip and exude a certain supposed "class," much like America's Beverly Hills.

The music for this version is available on iTunes as "Gangnam Style US Version, Chopper XXL".
Have fun!
