God Made a Clogger

One of the most memorable commercials of this year's Superbowl featured the words of legendary broadcaster Paul Harvey waxing poetic about the virtues of the American farmer.

So, with a nod to Mr. Harvey, I couldn't help but adapt his words to fit this dance we love:

And on the 8th day God looked down on his planned paradise and said, "I need a dancer!" So, God made a clogger!

God said I need somebody to get up before dawn and get kids off to school and work all day, eat supper and then go to town and stay past midnight at a meeting of the school board and still find time for classes, practice and choreography. So, God made a clogger!

I need somebody with strong legs. Strong enough to stomp out a syncopation, yet gentle enough to pitter patter a glorious rhythm. Somebody to call dances, tame cantankerous cuesheets, come home hungry to learn new steps and have to wait until after they are done feeding the kids and visiting with the neighbors and telling them to be sure to come back real soon...and mean it. So, God made a clogger!

God said "I need somebody that can double-lace a shoe, rip off a broken tap in the middle of a dance and not missed a step. And...who, at class time and practice season, will finish their forty hour week by Tuesday noon. Then, pain'n from "tractor back", make it to every weekend exhibition. So, God made a clogger!

God had to have somebody willing to ride the ruts at double speed to help get the sound equipment set up or the portable stage torn down ahead of the rain clouds and yet race to get a cold bottle of water for the dancers coming off stage when they are the first one down during a hot July show. So, God made a clogger!

God said, "I need somebody who believes in preserving the heritage of a dance that is rich in traditions brought to this new land, but who is gracious in receiving the ideas and creativity brought to it by a new generation of fresh ideas and influences. Someone who will commit themselves to perfecting a step no matter how long it takes.... But will stop to help a beginner learn to drag and slide and reassure them that it is okay to miss a sound or two, So, God made a clogger!

It had to be somebody who'd throw together a show to help raise money in the community...and not think of self. Somebody to give this same gift of dance to the young and the old and those with special needs. Somebody plan a week's classes and practice and then finish a hard days work with a five mile drive to church. Somebody who'd lace a family together with the soft strong bonds of sharing, who'd laugh and then sigh...and then respond with smiling eyes, when a son or daughter says they want to spend their life "doing the dance their family does". So, God made a clogger!
Happy clogging! Jeff Driggs

Cloggers Share the Stories of how Clogging Brought Them Together

Josh and Della King, Melbourne, Australia

Josh King is known in clogging for his great choreography and teaching style. Josh began clogging in the early 1980's where he performed and competed with the Yellow Rose Cloggers in his native Houston, Texas. His skill as a competitor and young choreographer caught the eye of many in the clogging world and Josh was soon traveling and teaching around the United States, Europe and to Australia. Josh met his future wife Della in 2004 at the Gympie Muster music festival in Queensland, Australia. Josh was living in Nashville, Tennessee at the time, and had been coming to the Muster in Australia for years to entertain with clogging routines for the group of dedicated cloggers that turned up, and beginner clogging lessons for anyone at the festival that wanted to join in.

Della lived just outside of Melbourne, Australia and happened to be at the Muster that year to watch her sisters Barbara and Victoria perform in the country music talent search competition. As a dance instructor with her own studio, she saw the cloggers and was intrigued by the style of dance. Thinking it looked similar to tap, she got up on the floor (during an Intermediate teach) to give it a try.

Josh couldn't help but notice the cute blonde on the dance floor. They chatted after his teach and ended up hanging out for the rest of the weekend. Two years, several visits back and forth, and hundreds of emails and phone calls later, Josh moved to Australia in 2006 so they could be together.

Now they're married with 4 kids (Tatjana, Jake, Zach and Amelia) and living happily in Melbourne, Australia.

Josh continues to teach clogging in Australia and has routines on the national dance lists in the USA and Australia. Josh is grateful to Chris Anderson for inviting him to that first Muster festival so many years ago!

Jason and Melanie Stratton, Illinois

Melanie Stratton met her husband Jason in 2006 when Jason began teaching her younger brother and sister how to clog. After watching her siblings clog for a few months, she decided to try it too and eventually joined the Sugar Creek Cloggers from Normal, Illinois (near Bloomington). "Clogging, eventually, became my whole life and I loved it," Melanie said. "I had a crush on Jason from the beginning, and thought that Jason liked me too, though I wasn't for sure."

In March 2010, Jason approached Melanie asking if he could get to know her better, and the couple began dating. They were engaged in May of 2011 and married in March of 2012. Though they are without a clogging group at this time, they continue to clog and look forward to maybe starting a group of their own someday. Looking back, Melanie says that she almost didn't take beginner clogging lessons, but is very happy that she decided to. "Taking clogging lessons is one thing that I will never regret doing," Melanie said.

Rob and Melissa Pack, Tennessee

Rob and Melissa Pack met through clogging in 2005 but she had known about him before that. Melissa says that she had been praying for him before she knew him because he was having a hip replacement in 2004 as the result of a devastating accident and her team had sent out a prayer chain email to help him. Melissa also had known Rob's brother and family. Stan Pack was one of Melissa's dance partners and his parents traveled to competitions with them. Even more coincidental was that Rob's sister, Laura, had been Melissa's dental hygienist. She also used to dance with RNM and is now Melissa's assistant for the Evermean Evergreen Cloggers.

"I had seen Rob at a few of our shows and instantly thought he was the best looking man I had ever seen," Melissa said. Rob was currently in "retirement" from dancing, but the team needed him to fill in at a few shows and at the World Championships in Maggie Valley in the fall of 2005. "I was so happy to hear that he was going to be dancing with us because I knew that was my chance to make my move," she said. "I wasn't concerned if he was even dating anybody because I had the gut feeling to go for it and follow my heart."

"He says I "stalked" him that weekend at the competition but I was not wasting any time," Melissa said laughing. "Rob is pretty reserved and shy and wasn't too interested in pursuing anybody since his accident and I was determined to overcome that."

Melissa says that she made an effort to get him to talk to her every chance she could that entire weekend and she finally ended up with his phone number. A few weeks after the competition she broke the ice by calling him on his birthday, and later she got his email address and began corresponding. Thanks to some of their mutual friends, she arranged for all of them to go as friends to a square dance at the local VFW. "My plan all came together that night," Melissa said. "We shared our first square dance together and slow dance and he officially asked me out after that. The rest is history of course but we started dating for 6 months, he proposed and we were married six months later."

Melissa says that the saying of "you just know" absolutely falls true in their case because they both knew their feelings for each other from the start, While Melissa says she just had to pull it out of the shy Rob. "We are very blessed to be able to share our love of clogging together," she said. Together, the couple have accomplished many of their clogging dreams since they've been married, and are thankful that they have been able to experience many things that most people don't get the chance to do or even share with their spouse. They have both danced on the National Champion team, Rhythm N Motion from Cookeville, Tennessee, and have danced on the Grand Ole Opry together, performed at the Lincoln Memorial in Washington, DC, and brought back Rob's original clogging team as a child, the Evermean Evergreen Cloggers, which Rob now helps his wife to manage. Rob helps to teach workshops, critique solos and duos, cut dance music, take pictures and videos, and help with the team as they travel to clogging events together.

Melissa says that they are such a team together that an event last year in Fletcher, North Carolina was the first competition or event that she had to do without Rob, due to his work schedule. Wanting to be there to support her and the team, Rob drove six hours to surprise her 30 minutes before they went on stage. "That's true love." Melissa exclaimed!

When the couple met, Melissa says that Rob's clogging goal was to dance at our Nation's Capital one day. The couple got pretty close when they travelled to Washington, D.C. in July, 2012 to perform at the Lincoln Memorial and in the National Independence Day Parade. Rob was also singled out to be interviewed by National Public Radio who were covering the event.

Melissa says her main clogging goal when the couple met was to dance on the Grand Ole Opry. Her commitment to clogging is what caused her to move from her native Virginia to Tennessee, and her dreams to dance on the Opry have been fulfilled several times, most memorably in 2008 when she and Rob shared the experience with their two best friends Dereck Galyean and Christina Nobili.

The Packs says that they have many great memories and stories to tell and clogging is at the base of most of them because it's what they love to do. "It's the talent God called us to share," Melissa said, "and lead our paths to cross to fulfill that."

Morgan and S'Lena Hudson

Morgan and S'Lena Hudson's clogging love story starts in May of 2002. Both had clogged as youngsters and taken a break from it. Morgan had been out of clogging for 13 years and S'Lena had been out for 11 years. Both were just getting back into clogging when they met at Hoedown Island located in Slade, Kentucky. Hoedown Island is a dance floor actually located on a small island in the middle of a lake at Natural Bridge State Park in Central Kentucky. Hoedown Island is well known to cloggers throughout the region for the seasonal dances held there by the late clogging hall of famer Richard Jett.

On this particular night at Hoedown Island, Morgan asked S'Lena to dance Cotton Eye Joe. After their time together on the dance floor, the pair ended up chatting and dancing the night away. They didn't get the chance to spend time together again until August of 2002, when Morgan began travelling to attend S'Lena's clogging classes in Powell County, Kentucky just to be near her. They attended their first workshop together in the Fall of that same year at the Frolic in the Fall at Lake Cumberland. At a Christmas party that year, Morgan and S'Lena talked about taking their relationship to the next level and began dating officially.

On Valentine's Day 2003, Morgan asked S'Lena to be his wife, popping the question at the spot where they met at Hoedown Island. She said "Yes."

Clogging had brought the two together and they wanted it to be a big part of their wedding day. On July 12, 2003, they were married at their beloved Hoedown Island. The wedding was planned to coincide with a clogging weekend that instructors Steve Smith and Charlie Burns were holding. "Steve and Charlie played a big part in our clogging upbringing," Morgan said. "A lot of our family, friends, and cloggers were there. Clogging and Hoedown Island holds a special place in our hearts."

Joey and Jennifer Mclaughlin-Kay

Clogger Jennifer Mclaughlin met her husband Joey Kay when the two danced together on the Mountain Pride Cloggers of Belle, West Virginia. A twin, Joey and his brother were an energetic twosome and Jennifer and her sister also were long time members of the small town clogging team that performed throughout their region and even travelled to Nashville, Tennessee to perform on the state of the world famous Grand Ole Opry. Both took a break from clogging to attend college and “met” again eight years later while taking a class together at their place of work.

Their childhood clogging friendship gave them a connection that grew into a relationship and the couple clogged into their wedding reception when they were announced.

Dan and Terri Johnson-Harmon

Dan and Terri met in the Fall of 1990 when his oldest two children started clogging with The Flatland Cloggers of Norfolk, Virginia. At the time, Dan didn't dance but it wasn't long before circumstances changed and he was bit by the bug. He learned to clog which Terri says was no small feat for a man with a fused left ankle.

“We started dating in May of 1991 and got married in May of 1996,” Terri said. Dan became not only a member of The Flatland Cloggers but their bus driver as well. “Most people remember him as the long-haired guy with Flatland that drove the bus,” she said.

At one point in my life, Terri's entire immediate family was clogging. “My dad and mom, sister, husband and our children. Boy, where those the days!” Terri said.

Her parents Bob and Myrtle Johnson led the Flatland Cloggers of Virginia since 1977 where he popularized his famous slogan, “Dance, Children, Dance.” Bob was inducted into America's Clogging Hall of Fame and the family will always be remembered for their contributions to the art of clogging and commitment to the dancers they have trained.

David and Cyndi Jefferies, Missouri

I met my wife through clogging when she began to bring her daughter to my clogging classes. You never know how fate will lend a hand when it comes to love. “I've learned the hard way she no longer likes to be considered just a clogger Mom,” Jefferies said. “Wife trumps ‘clogger Mom’ every time!”

Cloggers in the Spotlight

Rockin' THE Boat

Cloggers and their friends and families from eight U.S. states and Canada took to the high seas in January as part of a clogging cruise to the Western Caribbean. The dancers aboard the ship enjoyed workshops and fun dancing with instructors Jeff Driggs from West Virginia, Jason Pflugh from Ohio, Elaine Paugh from Indiana, Danny Lee from Kentucky and Tina Curtis from Canada.

The instructors brought a great variety of material to the workshops and gave everyone a great start to the sea days between ports. In addition to the workshops, dancers aboard took to the decks to dance, as well as enjoyed a variety of shows and activities and shore excursions when at port. Hanna Healy of New York chose this trip's destinations and cloggers had a great time!
